CHINESE REDS SEIZE 5 YANKS

One Reported Dead; Communists Demand Apology from U. S. Navy.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13—The Chinese Communist radio today confirmed the capture of five United States Marines in North China. It said the Reds demanded the U. S. Navy "apologize."

The broadcast said one Marine, Pfc. Charles J. Brayton, died of wounds received in a fight preceding the capture. He was from Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y.

U. S. Adm. Charles N. Cooke, Jr., said in Shanghai Monday he could not confirm the reported death of one Marine. He added there was no news concerning the five since their presumed capture on a hunting trip Christmas day.

The Communist broadcast, from a secret station in North China, was recorded here by The Associated Press. It said:

"Five American Marines in a jeep advanced against a position of the Peoples Liberation (Communist) army at Wanglintao (north of Tsingtao on the Shantung peninsula) on the 25th of December as fierce fighting raged in this area between the Peoples Liberation army and eight Kuomintang (government) brigades.

"In a defensive action, the Peoples Liberation army captured the five Marines together with five rifles, wounding one of the Marines in the process.

"The wounded Marine, Private First Class Brayton, died in a field hospital of the Peoples Liberation army. The captured American Marines included a corporal, named by the Navy as Cpl. William L. Pollard, Fort Worth, Privates Dickensen (Pfc. Carroll W. Dickerson, Olathe, Kas.), Hart, (Pvt. Robert Hart, Pittsburgh), and another private (PFC. Thomas Kapodistria, Buffalo, N. Y.)

"They all serve in the headquarters of the West Pacific American fleet."

REDS SPURN OFFER OF ECONOMIC MERGER

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Feb. 13 — Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander in Germany, ordered the establishment of an economic commission for eastern Germany in the Soviet occupation zone.

In so doing, he spurned repeated invitations to integrate the economy of the Russian zone with that of western Germany.

His order obviously was the Soviet answer to a strong economic union of the British and American zones. Sokolovsky previously demanded dissolution of the merger.

Sokolovsky granted the commission power "to issue orders and instructions binding on all German organizations in the Soviet zone of Germany in harmony with the orders of the Soviet military administration."

The commission was empowered to examine questions of development and development of peacetime industry in the Soviet zone of Germany as well as coordination of the activity of the central German administrative departments and individual branches of the economy.

The commission was ordered to carry through according to the reparations deliveries and to satisfy the needs of Soviet occupation forces in Germany."

Rockefeller To Marry On St. Valentine's Day

By The Associated Press

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13—Winthrop Rockefeller and pretty Barbara Sears have bowed to sentiment—and the law—and will be married Saturday — Valentine's day.

Previously, Rockefeller, one of the heirs to the oil millions of the late John D. Rockefeller, his grandfather, had planned to wed on Friday the 13th, traditionally the day of bad luck.

The change in plans was announced late yesterday because Florida law requires a 72-hour waiting period from the time of application for a license to the time of the wedding. The time is measured from midnight to midnight.

The ceremony will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Guest, with some 50 close friends in attendance, shortly after midnight Saturday. The Rev. Winslow S. Drummond, pastor of the West Palm Beach Presbyterian church, will officiate.

INHALATORS GIVEN BY EXCHANGE CLUB

Presentation Made to Police and Sheriff's Departments.

Formal presentation of two life-saving devices was made by the Marion Exchange club last night, one to the police department and one to the sheriff's office, in a dinner meeting of the club at Hotel Harding.

The presentation was by Robert McCollister, president of the club. Acceptance talks were given by Police Chief William E. Marks and Sheriff Leroy Retterer.

The devices, each costing $800, are combination inhalator, resuscitation and aspirator units and will be used by the enforcement agencies for first aid and emergency cases.

The devices were purchased for the police and sheriff's department with funds raised through special activities sponsored by the Exchange club. Although formal presentation was deferred until last night the equipment has been in the hands of the enforcement agencies for the past two weeks for use if needed.

Safety Director E. O. Uncapher, and Captain Louis Kirts assisted Chief Marks in representing the police department, while Deputies Millard Baldwin and George Conway accompanied Sheriff Retterer.

H. H. McCowan of Cleveland, safety engineer of the Standard Oil Co., was main speaker and gave a talk on safety, after which he screened a color motion picture showing fire-fighting experiments made by the U. S. Navy and Standard Oil in fighting oil and gasoline fires. James J. Oram of the local Standard Oil offices assisted Mr. McCowan.

Sixty club members and their wives attended the dinner at which J. C. A. Arter was toastmaster.

Orders Pipeline Co. To Keep Up Ohio Delivery

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The federal power commission yesterday ordered the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. of Kansas City to continue delivering 15,000,000 cubic feet of fuel gas daily to the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. of Columbus, O.

The order will remain in effect through Feb. 22.

The commission also ordered that as long as increased deliveries are made to Ohio Fuel and other sources in Kentucky, it must keep deliveries to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. of Detroit to a 125,000,000 cubic feet daily.

NEW DEAL FOE SAYS SHE WON'T WITHHOLD TAX

Woman Industrialist Declares She Won't Collect Levies from Employes.

By The United Press

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13—Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., manufacturer, said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Los Angeles Rotary club today that effective at 4 p. m. EST she "deliberately" would stop withholding federal income taxes from her employes' wages.

"From this day I am not collecting nor paying their income taxes for them," Miss Kellems said. She called for the abolition of the income tax as a substitute for another round of wage increases.

"There are many sincere people who will censure me for breaking the law. Knowing this and having been through one New Deal smear and persecution, I still break this law, deliberately," she said.

She said the taxes were deducted as usual from the paychecks received today by the 100 workers she employs at Westport making steel and copper cable grips. She said a court decision would be necessary before she would do it again

Wants Pay for Work

"If high Tax Harry (President Truman) wants me to get that money for him, then he must appoint me an agent for the internal revenue department, he must pay me a salary for my work, and he must reimpurse me for my expenses incurred in collecting that debt.

"I am not a tax collector and if an American citizen can be fined and thrown into prison for not collecting taxes from his workers, then let's know about it now. Let's see what the court has to say about this law—it's not the first one passed in violation of the Constitution."

Miss Kellems said she realized she was running a risk, but said that she had discovered that "like all bullies and blood-sucking parasites, mangy, communistic bureaucrats are at heart yellow cowards. So no matter what they do, I'm standing on my rights until the court hands down its verdict."

There is no record of an employer previously refusing to withhold taxes from wages. However, a small battery shop owner once in Pennsylvania refused to pay social security taxes on his employes. The federal tax bureau seized one of his trucks every so often, auctioned it off and kept the proceeds of taxes.

Washington View

(In Washington a spokesman for the internal revenue bureau said that the income tax law made an employer a "deputy collector." However, he refused to make a flat statement on what steps would be taken to punish an employer who refused to make the deductions.

(The first legal steps would be taken to collect the tax from the employer. The government could seize property and auction it if necessary. In addition to the unpaid tax, there would be a six per cent interest charge, and possibly another five per cent negligence penalty, plus a $40 annual penalty on each return the employer failed to make—employers make quarterly returns for each employe and there is a $10 penalty on each late return.

(If the government couldn't collect from the employer, the individual employe still would be liable for his entire tax, the bureau spokesman said.)

Not First Experience

It wasn't the first time that Miss Kellems had attacked the income tax laws, nor her first run-in with the federal government.

TAFT OUTLINES FARM PROGRAM

Proposes Reduction in Level of Government Price Supports.

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Feb. 13—A cut in the level of government farm price supports was proposed today by Senator Taft (R-Ohio). Arriving to open a drive for Nebraska's backing in his race for the GOP presidential nomination, the Ohioan chose this midwestern grain and livestock area to outline a farm program of his own.

This included:

1. Price props "at a much less percentage of parity than 90 per cent." (Parity is a level calculated to keep farmers' income equal to that of other workers.)

2. No price or production controls, although the latter might be used "in the greatest emergency."

3. No taxation "on farmers banded together to sell at a higher price or buy at a lower price."

4. Encouragement of soil conservation.

Taft said in an address prepared for delivery before the livestock exchange in south Omaha that the government has "peculiar justification" for maintaining minimum farm prices.

Sees Need of Revision

"But I believe very strongly that the parity concept will have to be revised," he said, adding:

"I think if there is to be such a support program it ought to be at a much less percentage of parity than 90 per cent, although at 90 per cent the government might understake to interest itself actively in creating more of a market for the product."

The Ohio senator said President Truman's repeated demand for price-wage and rationing controls "looks rather foolish today when we see the tremendous drop in commodity prices without price control."

The most critical two months of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination faced Senator Taft today as he moved into Nebraska.

Obviously cheered by the reception given his demand in St. Paul, Minn., last night for a

MEETING SET ON MARION'S HOSPITAL PLAN

U. S. Health Officials Coming To Talk Over Federal-State Aid Program.

United States department of health officials will be in Marion next Wednesday for a conference on the city's hospital situation in respect to Marion's prospective share in the $40,000,000 federal-state hospital construction program in Ohio.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler said today he received word yesterday from Dr. A. J. Borowsky, chief of the hospital program in the health department, that federal representatives would be here at that time. The conference is scheduled for 3 p. m. at the City hall.

Further Information Sought

Mayor Dowler had written the U. S. health department office of hospital facilities at the suggestion of Dr. John D. Porterfield, state health director, in respect to obtaining further information and advice on the course of action to take here.

Expected to attend the meeting in addition to the Mayor and Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher, are James A. Mautz, city hospital administrator and a representative of the medical staff.

Marion has been given high priority in the construction program, being placed in the second of five priority groups. Dr. Borowsky indicated that the construction program would take care of the first two groups within the next two years.

This Years Deadline

Action this year is possible if the local plan of action is mapped and contract for construction is let by May 16, deadline for federal aid for the 1947-48 fiscal year.

The conference next Wednesday will be aimed at laying the groundwork for developing local plans. The main question will be which of two courses of action to take here, construction of additional facilities as had been planned before the federal-state program was originated, or erection of a new hospital.

Under the program, Marion has been designated as an intermediate area in a coordinated state system of hospitals. The area requirement is an 100-bed hospital.

Hospital District

The area to be served by the hospital includes Marion county and 1½ townships in Wyandot, Union and Morrow counties. They are: Wyandot county, Marseilles, Mifflin, Crane, Pitts and Upper Sandusky townships; Union—Jackson, Claiborne; Morrow county—Canaan, Gilead, Cardington and Lincoln townships. Estimated population of the area is 64,000.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK EAST OF BUCYRUS

Victor Payne of Chicago, Ill., suffered lacerations of the head when a transport truck he was driving was struck by a Pennsylvania freight train a half mile east of Bucyrus on highway 98 at 12:20 a. m. today, the state highway patrol reported.

Mr. Payne, who was treated for his injuries in Bucyrus City hospital, said the crash occurred when he failed to see the approaching train. He said the truck skidded on the wet pavement when he attempted to stop. The train, No. 6464, was headed north and the truck was going west.

Although the cab of the truck was demolished, the trailer, loaded with chocolate candy, was not broken open.

Former Governor of Kentucky Lincoln Day Speaker Tonight

Marion county Republicans will be joined by state and district representatives and party members from nearby counties for the traditional Lincoln Day banquet and program tonight in the recreation room of Wesley Methodist church. Speaker for the occasion is Simeon S. Willis, practicing attorney of Ashland, Ky., and former governor of that state.

Hugh Jenkins of Columbus, Ohio attorney general, will act as toastmaster and the banquet will be at 6:30 o'clock. Among the guests, aside from Mr. Willis and the attorney general will be Mrs. Mabel Wheatcraft of Galion, district committeewoman, Douglas Sears of Bucyrus, district committeeman, and a number of out-of-town party members. Congressman Frederick C. Smith, who has planned to be present, wired the committee yesterday he will be unable to be here due to house committee meetings.

Dr. E. A. Brown, pastor of the Wesley Methodist church will speak the invocation, and the benediction will be by Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth Methodist church. Music for the dinner and program will be furnished by Mrs. Fanny Benson at the piano, Harold Patrick, who will lead group singing, and accordion music by Marion Apple.

Attorney Willis served as judge of the court of appeals in Kentucky and completed a four-year term as governor of the state on Dec. 9, 1947. He has been active in Republican affairs for many years.

Butter Prices Drop Sharply

Grain Trade Skittish; Stocks Irregular; Drops Reach Retail Markets.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 — Commodity prices began to show signs of gaining a little strength today but a violent down swing hit the wholesale butter market.

Grain prices were irregular. But they gave indications of attempting to climb in contrast to the downward slides of the past week.

The price of wholesale butter slammed down 5 to 6½ cents a pound on the New York mercantile exchange.

The drop was immediately reflected in some retail prices.

The National Association of Retail Grocers said a key city survey showed reductions in flour, bacon, ham, lard, vegetable shortening, eggs and butter, and in some cases beef.

These price cuts were not loss leaders posted to attract trade, said Patsy D'Agostino, president of the association. They are genuine reductions, made possible by the flexibility of grocers to adjust to market conditions quickly, he said.

Grains showed widely divergent tendencies. Corn swung down as much as the full limit at the start, but wheat and oat deliveries were steady to slightly higher. Corn prices subsequently came back from the lows.

Cotton fell almost $4 a bale at New York. Shortly after the opening, however, mills began buying and there was a rebound that brought the price about $2 above the lows at the start.

At New Orleans, cotton was $1.25 to $2.00 a bale lower.

DEWEY ATTACKS FOREIGN POLICY

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Feb. 13—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has served notice he intends to make the Truman administration's foreign policy a major issue in this year's presidential election campaign if he wins the Republican nomination.

The New York governor charged President Truman with "bungling" in foreign affairs and demanded "the policies of the present administration be thrown overboard lock, stock and barrel."

Dewey submitted his own blueprint for a European recovery program at a Lincoln's day dinner last night—a program that calls for an American-financed federation of Europe.

Without mentioning the Marshall plan by name, Dewey outlined his own program for European recovery—one that provides for expenditures of the entire $17,000,000,000 already asked of congress, if necessary.

"In two and one-half years since the war," he said, "we have spent over 20 billion dollars in foreign aid, indiscriminately scattered among free peoples and those behind the iron curtain."

Dewey said continuation of the Truman policies would "allow the iron curtain to move across Europe to Boston Harbor on one side of us and across Asia to Pearl Harbor on the other."

VICTIMS DIE IN COLLAPSE OF BUILDING

Trapped on Second Floor of Old Residence; Six Bodies Recovered.

By The Associated Press

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 13—Eleven members of one family perished today in a flash fire that swept a two-story frame dwelling in Utica's West Side.

Six bodies were recovered by firemen from the smoking ruins. Four were children. One was a woman, clasping an infant.

Victims included Mrs. Ruth Hoage and nine children ranging in age from five months to 19 years. Mrs. Hoage was the second wife of Richard Hoage, 48.

Fourteen scantily clad persons fled from the building, Fire Chief Leo Barry said. Dana Paye Sr., his wife and 19-year-old daughter were hospitalized with burns after jumping from a second floor window.

Walls Collapse

The walls of the long, ramshackle building, in Cedar Street, near the New York Central railroad tracks, collapsed before most of the second floor occupants who had been asleep could get out.

The ruins blazed fiercely for only a short time, but the intense heat delayed the firemen's search for bodies.

The list of dead, compiled by Capt. Eugene McNally of the fire prevention bureau, included Mrs. Ruth Hoage, 24, and Mrs. Shirley Hoage, 29, and these children:

Virginia, 19; Dana, 3; Mark, 8 months; Catherine, 2; Geraldine, 10; Audrey, 5; Charity, 7; Michael, 11 months, and Lee, 5 months. Mrs. Shirley Hoage was the wife of an older son of Richard Hoage.

List of Injured

The injured, all in St. Elizabeth's hospital:

Mrs. Ella Paye, 48, critical; Dana Paye, Sr., and their daughter, Catherine, 19.

Mary Hoage, 13, who jumped from a second story porch into a snow bank, said other members of her family were huddled in one room waiting for rescue when the building collapsed. Her father, Richard, was at work in a garage.

The eleven persons who reached safety without apparent injury stood weeping at the ruins while firemen searched.

VA REPORTS ON OHIO BENEFITS

Over $262,000,000 Paid to Ohio Veterans in Last Fiscal Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Uncle Sam paid out more than $262,000,000 to Ohio's war veterans in the last fiscal year.

The figures are contained in a new report of Veterans Administration operations covering the year ending last June 30.

In addition the VA underwrote $132,000,000 of guaranty and insurance for 50,900 GI loans on homes, farms and businesses.

Administration cost of the program in Ohio was estimated at $37,772,000. This administration figure includes hospital operation.

Those benefitted include not only veterans and dependents of deceased veterans of the last war. Some payments went to survivors of Ohioans who fought in the Civil, Indian and Mexican wars. World War I and the Spanish-American war also drew sizeable chunks of the total.

Many Items Covered

The payments covered such items as compensation or pension benefits, retirement pay, national service life insurance, vocational rehabilitation, education and training under the GI bill and unemployment readjustment allowances.

The federal program is entirely separate from the benefits veterans will receive under Ohio's $300,000,000 bonus.

Although current figures are not available, it is estimated two veterans bills which passed the house recently, increasing benefits to veterans in college and those taking on-the-job training, will add an extra $15,000,000 in annual federal payments to state veterans.

The veterans administration says Ohio had a total of 984,000 living veterans as of last September, including 786,000 from the last war and 198,000 from all previous wars.

18 Million Veterans

Nationally, as of last July, living veterans of all wars numbered 18,271,000, including 14,361,000 from the last war.

Total VA expenditures in the 1947 fiscal year, the one covered in the recent report, were $7,800,000,000. The agency is asking $6,102,000,000 for the year beginning next July 1.

The largest share of Ohio benefits—$36,054,000—was spent on education and training. A total of 128,608 veterans listed in these programs received $72,574,000 for subsistence allowance and $25,480,000 for tuition and equipment.

A total of $85,138,260 went for compensation or pension benefits, including certain retirement pay, to living veterans or dependents of deceased veterans.

This program covered 166,101 living and deceased veterans of all wars.

Water Shortage Hits Part of Mansfield

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., Feb. 13—Mayor Ray W. Vaughn today asked Mansfield industries to conserve water as much as possible while repairs are being made on a pump supplying a 150,000-gallon tank.

The pump broke down yesterday and several hundred families living in the southern part of the city were without water for several hours last night.

Emergency repairs were made, and firemen also put pumps into operation to fill the tank. The job was expected to be finished late today.

K.P. LODGE HALL BURNED IN SHELBY

By The Associated Press

SHELBY, O., Feb. 13—The 60-year-old Knights of Pythias building was wrecked by a fire which raged for four hours early today.

The three-story brick structure burst into flames about 1:20 a. m., and the fire was brought under control at 5:30.

Officials valued the building at $70,000. Stock valued at $10,000 was destroyed in a paint store on the first floor. Records of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. office in the building were saved. They were expected to be stored temporarily in city hall.

Shelby's two truck companies, the fire department from the 831st Army Air Force Specialized depot, and firemen from neighboring Crestline battled to prevent flames from reaching the city building directly alongside.

The city building houses municipal and township offices. Firemen played streams of water on the city building roof to reduce fire hazard.

There was no immediate estimate of damage but firemen said the Knights of Pythias building would be nothing more than a shell when the blaze burned out.

Even if You Are on the Paunchy Side, You May Be Snared on Leap Year Valentine's Day

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Are you "half safe"? Do you have "B. O."? Is your hair plastered down like a gigolo while your unpleasant breath mows down your chances to charm 10 paces away? Be cautious, bub, you're going to need all these and "tattle-tale" grey too if you hope to stay single past St. Valentine's day tomorrow—for this is leap year.

With spinsters who know their chances for marriage best it's leap year, two to one, and Valentine's day is a ready-made opportunity to open a "second front" on the object of their affections. Don't feel safe, my bachelor friend, even if you are losing the "battle of the bulge" with your figure.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to what the women have been plotting all winter and Valentine's day fires the opening gun in the spring campaign to lay the prospective meal ticket low. This is the day when the most shrinking violets can quit being sanforized and send her billet doux as boldly as an Amazon to what she fondly believes to be the object of her affections, without the slightest fear of censure.

It's a Conspiracy

The lovely deceit of the whole Valentine set-up is foisted on the unsuspecting male from such an early age that he is very agreeable to the idea, and to receive a lovely lace trimmed missive from some lissome lass half his age will make the weariest wolf feel as full of bounce as a new ping-pong ball.

This year, as always, girls who count their calories the rest of the year will eat heartily of rich creamy chocolates from big red heart-shaped boxes purchased by gray-haired "boys" who used to work lovingly on hand-cut, dog-eared, grimy, red paper hearts pierced by odd-shaped arrows laboriously inscribed "To My Valentine" in a childish scrawl.

Plentiful Supply in Marion

Marion's stationery, drug, and 5 and 10 cent-stores present a greater variety of valentines this year than ever before.

Once a fellow could get by with buying a lacy frilly 50 cent job for his girl and a fancy folding 25 cent number for his mother, but a new day has dawned. Now your valentine vendor offers such diverting numbers as the one

CHRIST in You, THE HOPE of Glory

DECISION

Matthew 20:27, 28. "And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant: Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many."

HOW we do crowd and strive and push for position! What an ugly and disappointing sight it must be from God's vantage point. When He would let us look on and see life at its finest, He draws back the curtain upon the life of His Son, Who came "to minister" and "to give." Cutting straight across our accepted standards, and daring to challenge and condemn our selfish maxims, moves the Mighty, Matchless Christ. Dare to follow Him and see where He will lead you! Dare to walk in the light of His Truth and see what He will make of you! Dare to answer His call to service and see how greatly He will use you! Only as you step out of the beaten path of self-centered living, and in self-forgetful, sacrificial service minister to the needs and redemption of others, will you find the life of abiding greatness.

Gasoline Floor Wash Starts Mary St. Fire

A flash fire in the basement of the Charles Deem home at 625 Mary street at 5:37 p. m. yesterday resulted when gasoline which Mr. Deem was using to scrub the floor became ignited by a flame under a water heater. Fire companies three and four answered the call, but the blaze had been extinguished by Mr. Deem before they arrived. He used a broom and a bucket of water to put out the fire.

RESERVE OFFICERS WEEK PROCLAIMED

Mayor Calls for Support of Marion Organization.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler yesterday issued a proclamation urging support of the Reserve Officers Association's National Security week by Marion organizations.

The mayor points out that for the past 25 years virtually all civic groups in the city have joined in the annual Feb 12-22 observance, fostered here by the Marion Reserve Officers association.

Pointing to the current world-wide unrest as a constant potential threat, bringing responsibility in recognition of the needs for preserving our national strength to each citizen, Mayor Dowler urged that:

The United States flag be displayed on all official buildings and at other appropriate places on city property.

The many business, civic and patriotic organizations demonstrate by other means their support of the R.O.A. and National Security week.

Every citizen give every cooperation to the observance and give prayerful consideration to the duties facing us all.

Treatment for Trench Mouth

Every part of the body seems to have its special enemies in the germ world and the gums are no exception. Indeed, the entire membrane lining of the mouth seems especially susceptible to the microbes which cause trench mouth or Vincent's angina.

Thus, this infection is highly contagious and may be spread from one person to another through droplets which are thrown into the air during talking or coughing, or by contaminated eating utensils, and insanitary drinking fountains. Epidemics of Vincent's infection are not unusual.

As a rule, mild cases of this disorder can be cleared up easily. In fact, there are many forms of treatment which have been used for it. However, when the disease becomes severe and prolonged, thorough-going measures are necessary.

The condition produces soreness of the mouth and gums. There may be bleeding of the gums or a bad odor to the breath. The gums are excessively tender. Ulcers or sores may form on the gums or lining membrane of the mouth.

During the early stages of mild cases simply brushing the teeth and gums, night and morning, with warm water, to which a little salt has been added, followed by rinsing for five minutes with equal amounts of hydrogen peroxide and water, will produce a cure. It is also suggested that tablets of potassium chlorate be allowed to disolve slowly in the mouth, under the tongue, three times a day.

In more advanced cases, this local treatment alone is not sufficient. It is suggested that penicillin be employed in the more severe cases, and the sulfonamide drugs for the less severe.

In any event, the first step in the treatment is for the dentist to remove deposits from the teeth, using all possible care and gentleness.

There are some who have suggested that penicillin be injected into the upper and lower jaws. However, equally good results seem to be obtained by giving the injections deep into a muscle. Lozenges containing penicillin may also be used. These are held in the mouth and allowed to dissolve.

If the sulfonamide preparations are used, an ointment containing them may be made up. The ointment is packed into the pocket between the gums and teeth. The sulfonamide preparations may also be given by mouth.

In any event, when Vincent's infection develops, the patient should be consulted immediately concerning the treatment of the condition. With the modern methods of eliminating this disease, the condition can be brought under control within relatively few days in practically all the cases.

Questions and Answers

M. M. G.: Just a week before my periods my breasts hurt. What can be done for this?

Answer: Pain in the breasts, which occurs just before the menstrual periods, has been thought to be due to some disturbance in the glands of internal secretion; possibly to a lack of ovarian activity.

In the treatment of this condition it has been suggested that ovarian residue be employed, starting from ten to fifteen days before the onset of menstruation is expected. However, it is advisable for such treatments to be carried out under the direction of a physician.

FORCE "UNITY" ON GERMANS

Straight-Jacket Put on People in Eastern Zone by Russians.

By EDWIN A. SHANKE
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN, GERMANY (RUSSIAN OCCUPIED ZONE), Feb. [illegible] Russians have completed political life in the Soviet zone of Germany into a so-called "anti-fascist bloc" straitjacket.

Although the eastern zone of Germany has grown into a totalitarian one-party state. The word used for it is "einheit" which is another way of describing what the Nazis used to call "gleichschaltung" or coordination, swinging all opposition into line.

The suppression was inescapably clear to American correspondents conducted by Russian officials through the eastern zone recently.

Communist slogans by the thousands in cities, villages and countryside, from billboards, walls and ruins, center around unity as the cure-all for the ills of unified Germany, for improved social conditions, for world peace.

Preach It, Practice It

"The youth demand unity—away with party maneuvering," reads a typical poster in Leipzig. That's exactly what's being done to all opposition that still exists is being squelched.

A politician in the Soviet zone doesn't dare run counter to this "unity" avalanche embodied in the Soviet sponsored Socialist Unity Party (SED) which dominates not only political administration, but the schools, press and the trade union, farmer, women and youth organizations.

If it weren't for the labels it would be virtually impossible to tell the difference in the east zone between the SED and its nominal opposition parties the conservative Liberal Democrats (LDP) and the conservative Christian Democratic Union (CDU).

Four newspapers are published in Weimar for the entire province of Thuringia. The SED organ called the "Thueringer Volk" appears six times weekly in an edition of 300,000 copies. The "opposition" voice—the "Thueringer Landeszeitung" (LDP) and the "Thueringer Tageblatt" (CDU) publish only three times weekly, the former with 25,000 copies and the latter with 18,000. In addition, an "independent" paper called the "Abendpost" prints daily with a circulation between 50,000 and 60,000.

Others Outnumbered

In other words, the SED party press is flooding Thuringia with approximately four copies of its newspaper to every one of the other three newspapers.

The editors said their circulations depend on the paper allotted them by the Soviet military administration. The Russian conducting officer said the paper ration depended on the number of members each party claimed.

But on that basis—according to figures corroborated in an interview with the editors—the SED was allowed to print 300,000 copies although it had a membership of only 270,000, the LDP could print only 25,000 copies for its membership of 40,000 and the CDU only 18,000 for its membership of 36,000 in the province.

Even with the CDU and LDP at a decided disadvantage as far as reaching the people through the press is concerned, it might be expected that the editors would make full and free use of these limited facilities to present their "opposition" views.

Questioned by the correspondents on their political differences, the editors, Fritz Hellmann, a Moscow trained SED member, Heinz Baumann of the CDU and Erich Geenschaltz of the LDP looked baffled.

Baumann looked to Hellmann and they to Geenschaltz. The concensus was "we have none."

Their views on the Marshall plan, U. S. aid to Greece, and Russian reparation demands from Germany were strictly the Moscow line.

About 73 per cent of the people of Cuba are white, the remainder being mainly of Negro or mixed blood.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

HEDGING . . . speculating . . . selling short . . . buying long . . . futures . . .

For a week you've been reading about those things in the big news of the drop in commodity prices.

This is an ABC on them.

A commodity is wheat, or corn, or lard, or soybean meal, or cotton, or eggs, or other things like those.

In commodity exchanges brokers buy and sell commodities for customers who pay them a fee for each deal.

James Marlow

So through these brokers people buy from one another, or sell to one another, without having any personal dealings at all.

The drop in commodity prices started in the exchanges, not in your grocery store.

There are two main kinds of deals you can make through a broker. Both of them are deals in "futures"—that is, commodities to be delivered at a set time in the future, not at the time the deal is made.

The two kinds are:

1. Speculation—you hope to make a profit by guessing right what prices will go up or down.

2. Hedging—this is a deal to protect yourself—in case prices fall—from a loss on some other deal you've made.

WHAT FOLLOWS is a very simplified—specialists may call it over-simplified — explanation of the two kinds of deals.

First, speculation—

There's one kind of speculation called "buying long." That's when you think wheat prices will rise because there's a demand for wheat. You don't want wheat to use; you want to make money.

You see May wheat futures—that is, wheat to be delivered in May—quoted today at a certain price. You think it will sell at more than that sometime before next May.

So you tell your broker to buy a certain number of bushels of May wheat for you. After that—tomorrow, next week, or anytime before May—if the price goes up you sell and take your profit.

If the price goes below the price you paid, you wait. But if it's still down by May you're stuck. You have to sell at a price lower than you paid for it.

THERE'S ANOTHER KIND of speculation called "selling short." This is done by people who think prices will drop instead of rising.

You have no wheat at all.

But you tell your broken to sell for you 5,000 bushels of May wheat futures—wheat that doesn't have to be delivered until May—at whatever the May wheat price is today, say $3 a bushel.

Then the price of May futures drops to $2.50 a bushel. Now you tell your broker to buy 5,000 bushels at $2.50. Although you had no wheat to start with, now you have some.

So you sell this $2.50-a-bushel wheat in May for three dollars a bushel—since someone's agreed to pay that for it. Your profit: 50 cents a bushel. You guessed right. The price went down.

But suppose you guessed wrong: You told your broker to sell for you 5,000 bushels of May wheat (which you didn't own) at $3 a bushel. But the price rose to $3.50.

You would have to buy 5,000 bushels at that high price of $3.50 to fulfill your agreement to sell at $3. You would lose 50 cents a bushel.

SO YOU CAN EITHER win or lose at both kinds of speculation.

Now take hedging—

Say you're a flour maker. You need wheat to make flour. Instead of going to a broker, you go directly to a farmer and pay him $3 a bushel for 5,000 bushels. This is where you hedge.

You can't use the wheat right away, so you put it in a warehouse. If the price drops before you use it, the value of your wheat has dropped.

So, to protect yourself, you tell your broker to sell for you 5,000 bushels of May wheat futures.

Say they're selling at $3 a bushel, the same price you paid for the wheat in your warehouse. (Cash prices and futures prices run pretty equal.)

From now on you don't figure to lose whether wheat prices go up or down.

First, suppose they go down—from $3 to $2.50. You tell your broker to buy you 5,000 bushels at $2.50 a bushel.

Remember, you have a deal to sell 5,000 bushels of May wheat at $3 a bushel. By buying it at $2.50 a bushel and selling at $3, you make 50 cents a bushel.

BUT THE VALUE OF the wheat you have in your warehouse has dropped from $3 to $2.50 a bushel. That's a 50-cent loss. So you break even.

Now suppose wheat prices go up instead of down—

After you've told your broker to sell 5,000 bushels at $3 a bushel the market prices goes up to $3.50.

You buy back your contract at $3.50 a bushel, thus losing 50 cents a bushel on this deal in May futures.

But the value of the wheat in your warehouse—you bought it at $3 a bushel from a farmer—now is $3.50 a bushel. You still break even.

Wheat you lost in the deal on May futures you made up by the rise in the worth of the wheat in your warehouse.

You've protected yourself all around.

Hull Tells of Futile Efforts To Keep Italy From Entering War

By CORDELL HULL

INSTALLMENT XVII

No statesman ever made a more sincere effort to keep another nation from going to war than did we in the case of Italy. Months of appeal and pressure from us preceded Mussolini's entry into the conflict.

On April 20 Myron Taylor sent me two cables for the President. In one he said there was real danger of Mussolini's joining Germany in engaging separately in aggression in new fields. He quoted Undersecretary of state, Maglione, as urging the President's action within two or three days, preferably immediately. In the other cable Taylor quoted the Pope as urging an immediate message from the President to Mussolini. The Pope said he would make a parallel endeavor at the same time.

Upon receiving these cables I conferred with the President, who was at Warm Springs, Ga. I told him that, through the two exchanges he had already made to me via the Italian ambassador, Welles, he had said in substance in reviewing to the President the cables we had been receiving from many capitals, it did not appear to us that action by Mussolini was likely to occur in a matter of days.

On April 26, however, Taylor cabled, saying that he had once more seen the Pope and Cardinal Maglione, who reemphasized their previous suggestions. Taylor reported the Vatican's belief that a surprise move by Mussolini was quite likely, especially since it was being said that he would need to move suddenly in order to overcome such opposition as existed in Italy against going to war.

THE PRESIDENT RETURNED to Washington on Sunday, April 28. I went over with him the cables from Taylor and informed him that the British and French governments were also worried that Mussolini would throw his forces into the war. The President thereupon decided he should make an appeal to Mussolini, this time in the form of a written message.

The drafting of the message was completed that afternoon, April 29, and went forward by cable to Mussolini that evening.

The following day Taylor cabled the President that the Pope had fulfilled his part of the proposed parallel action by sending a handwritten message to Mussolini direct.

Mussolini received Phillips on May 1 to have the President's message read to him. He said that Germany could not be beaten and that peace in Europe could not be considered without recognizing the "new geography" resulting from Hitler's conquests. As for Italy, he said her situation as a "prisoner within the Mediterranean" was intolerable, and inveighed against Britain's possession of the Suez Canal and Gibraltar.

MUSSOLINI WAS ACTUALLY more conciliatory orally to Phillips than in his written reply to the President, handed in at the White House by Ambassador Colonna on May 2.

The following day Phillips cabled me that he had seen Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law and foreign minister, who told him Britain's decision to withdraw her merchant marine from the Mediterranean had come as a surprise to Rome, since Italy had no intention of going to war unless the Allies attacked Italy.

"The hand that held the dagger."

Immediately after the invasion of the Low Countries began, Phillips again cabled me on May 10 that he had seen Ciano, who had just come from Mussolini. Ciano assured him that no change had been decided upon or was contemplated as a result of the new invasion.

Just four days later, however, the situation had changed entirely. Philips then cabled me Ciano's statement to him that, whereas a week before he thought chances of Italy's remaining out of the war were 50-50, they were now 90 to 10 in favor of participation. Ciano said Mussolini had made up his mind.

There was near consternation in London and Paris when they received this news. Ambassador Bullitt cabled me a frantic request that the President bring more pressure to bear on Mussolini. Premier Reynaud asked that some of our over-age destroyers be sold to Britain and France because of the Italian submarine attacks he expected in the Mediterranean.

WHEN PHILLIPS' CABLE reached the department, I sent it to the President. He thereupon decided to make another appeal to Mussolini. Again we at the state department worked with him on the text. It went forward at midnight that same day, May 14, in a cable from me to Phillips.

"I have sent word to Your Excellency before that I am a realist," the President said. "As a realist you will, I know, recognize that if this war should extend throughout the world it would pass beyond the control of heads of states, would encompass the destruction of millions of lives and the best of what we call the liberty and culture of civilization. And no man, no matter how omniscient, can foretell the result either to himself or his own people."

Phillips tried to see Mussolini personally again, but this time Mussolini sent word that he preferred to receive the President's second message through his foreign office. Three days later, on May 18, Philips cabled me Mussolini's reply to the President. This was that "Italy is and intends to remain allied with Germany, and Italy cannot remain absent at a moment in which the fate of Europe is at stake."

Meantime, during the few days preceding his reply, Bullitt in Paris, who had the closest possible contacts with the French government and reflected their natural consternation over the catastrophic turn in the fighting, cabled numerous suggestions for action on our part toward Italy. He proposed that the President request the Pope to threaten Mussolini with excommunication if Italy should enter the war and to denounce Hitler's invasion on spiritual grounds approaching a bull of excommunication. He also suggested that our Atlantic fleet be sent on a courtesy visit to Greece, that Italian immigrant remittances be cut off if Italy went to war and, that Italian immigrants and Italo-Americans adopt resolutions opposing Italy's participating in the conflict.

I TALKED OVER these various suggestions with the President. If there was any step that had a reasonable chance of succeeding, we were willing to take it. But it was clear that Mussolini's mind was made up.

Then on May 25 Churchill and Reynaud invited the President to make a further demarche to Mussolini. They suggested that he make a statement to him on these lines.

1. The President had reason to believe that Britain and France knew Italy entertained certain territorial grievances against them.

2. Britain and France were fully disposed to consider Italian claims now with a view to reaching an agreement which would satisfy reasonable Italian claims at the end of the war.

3. The Allies would admit Italy to the peace conference with a status equal to that of any belligerent.

Churchill and Reynaud suggested that the President should add that the United States would do its utmost to see to it that any agreement reached would be carried out, provided Italy refrained from going to war against Britain and France.

These various suggestions were to be made by the President acting on his own behalf and not as an agent of the Allies.

THE PRESIDENT AGREED without much difficulty to this approach. He did say, however, that, rather than act at the instance of the British and the French, he preferred to pursue the next logical step in his previous correspondence with Mussolini on the same general subject, which he had conducted on his own initiative, and without any request from any government.

The President's message, which we drafted at the state department, went forward in a cable from me to Ambassador Phillips on May 26.

Now Mussolini had before him a definite proposal whereby he could have obtained any reasonable demands without recourse to war, with the United States guaranteeing that Britain and France would live up to their agreement.

But the following day Phillips cabled me Mussolini's "No!" Ciano said to him that Mussolini's intention was not merely to realize the legitimate aspirations of Italy but also to fulfill his obligations under the alliance with Germany.

The President, undaunted by the fact that each time Mussolini replied his tone became more hostile, wanted a still further appeal to go forward to the Italian dictator. We accordingly worked on it, and cabled it to Phillips on May 30. This time the President said that a further extension of the war as a result of Italian participation "would at once result in an increase in the rearmament program of the United States itself and in a redoubling of the efforts of the government of the United States to facilitate in every practical way the securing within the United States by the Allied powers of all the supplies and materiel which they may require." The President reminded Mussolini of our historic interests in the Mediterranean which we had upheld for nearly 150 years.

MUSSOLINI'S REPLY was even more definite and hostile than before. Phillips cabled the President and me on May 31 Ciano's statement that Mussolini had made his decision to enter the war and it was now only a question of a short time—a matter of days. When Phillips commented that a profound change would occur in the attitude of the American public toward Italy if Italy entered the war, Ciano replied that this fact had already been taken into consideration.

The following day Phillips cabled me Mussolini's own statement that he desired to fulfill his engagements with Germany and preferred not to receive "any further pressure" since this "would only stiffen his attitude." He said he did not believe that Italy's intervention would necessarily enlarge the war in the Mediterranean, and he questioned our claim interests in the Mediterranean, saying these were the same as Italy had in the Caribbean.

At this point France made a direct offer to Mussolini to settle Italy's territorial claims. Bullitt cabled me on June 8, however, that Ciano replied to the French ambassador in Rome that Mussolini was not interested in receiving any French territories by peaceful negotiation. He had decided to make war on France, and there would be no reply to the French note.

THE PRESIDENT AND Welles now entertained the idea of making a still further appeal to Mussolini, using the French offer as a springboard. A draft of the message was prepared in the state department. But by now I had had more than enough of such appeals to a bandit who was determined on war to satisfy his own vanity and wish for glory. I very definitely opposed sending the message. My objections held, and this message, which was ready on June 7, was not sent.

It was no surprise to any of us when Mussolini declared war against Britain and France on June 10.

That night the President spoke at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Virginia. He reviewed the many efforts he had made to prevent Italy from entering the war. Then he added:

"On this tenth day of June 1940, the hand that held the dagger has struck it into the back of its neighbor."

This phrase was contained in the draft we had worked on in the state department. Welles suggested to the President that it come out, on the grounds that it would so prejudice Mussolini against him that it would be impossible to obtain his cooperation when the time came to make peace. Actually the idea of the stab in the back had been expressed by Premier Reynaud as early as May 20 and occurred several times in cables from Bullitt. The President removed the phrase from his text, but en route to Charlottesville changed his mind and reinserted it.

Prices and Politics in 1948

PRICE slumps in a few key places are revealing the close connection between high prices and high strategy in politics.

Observers have noted these things:

1. That the Truman administration apparently planned to blame high prices on the Republican majority in congress.

2. That the Truman administration, while professing to be opposed to high prices, actually was doing nothing to bring them down. In fact, there was evidence that it wanted them to stay up in order to support the inflated spending rate of the federal government a heritage from the New Deal.

3. That any drop in general price levels during 1948 would embarrass the Truman administration, by taking some of the punch out of its tactical position in the national election. It no longer can use the Republican party as a whipping boy.

The connection between prices and politics is now clearer than it was before certain commodity prices slumped. If prices come down, the Republican position of last summer that supply would overtake demand will be vindicated. At the same time, the Republican position against the inflated rate of spending, accompanied by wartime tax rates, will look more attractive than ever to harrassed taxpayers.

If, in the meantime, the Truman administration tips its hand by resisting lower prices, instead of welcoming them, the insincerity of its position will be evident.

Under the Damoclean Sword

THE latest Soviet denunciations are aimed at Russian composers, including Prokofiev, Shostakovich and Khachaturian, whose music, incidentally, is very popular in the United States. The most recent compositions of all three are in the same vein as those they wrote seven years ago. It is the official line that has changed.

The Russian creative artist lives under the Damoclean sword of official whim and caprice. Praise and adulation suddenly turn to bitter disapprobation if the displeasure of one bigwig is incurred. Disgrace and loss of livelihood are the fate of the artist who can't follow the twistings and turnings of the party line, which is difficult enough to trace in politics and downright nebulous in art.

Under a police state regime, Russian creative art, to which the world owes a debt extending back to Tchaikowsky, Pushkin and beyond, will wither and die just as German creative art faded under the iron boot of Nazism.

Turning Up Hidden Dollars

AS A METHOD of routing out hidden dollars, Representative Sundstrom, New Jersey Republican, proposes to recall all United States paper money and issue new currency in exchange. Currency not turned in by a specified date would be void.

Such a law, the congressman argues, would make the gangster, the tax evader and the black marketeer produce his hoarded cash and explain how he got it. Dollars held abroad would be exchanged for foreign currency. Theoretically the plan would reduce the call of European countries for Marshall plan dollars.

Last September the treasury had 28 billions of currency in circulation, an increase of 21 billions in seven years. Bills of the $50 to $10,000 denominations constitute 30 per cent of the money in circulation. These bills serve little purpose in everyday commerce, and the congressman believes many are reposing in safety deposit boxes as evidence of someone's illegal activities.

Treasury Secretary Snyder points out that such currency replacement would be costly. More important, it would tend to undermine confidence in the dollar, both here and abroad. Because tinkering with the money system is a risky business, this last argument appears to outweigh the favorable ones.

Someone Must Put Up the Money

THE president of the University of Rochester has told the council on medical education of the American Medical association what every educator knows—but the general public still hasn't realized.

Tax laws that hamper accumulation of large estates are threatening private colleges and universities. There is a shortage of the philanthropy which has given the nation many of its finest education institutions. Medical schools alone need at least $40,000,000 a year more than they're getting now, according to the president of Rochester university.

Someone must put up the money for education. The drift toward public support of advanced education is not the complete answer. It's unlikely that taxpayers would or could pay what would be needed if private philanthropy were wiped out by confiscatory tax laws.

Did You Know

If the mountain range of which Puerto Rico is a part were above—rather than below—sea-level, it would be the highest in the world.

The Greater and Lesser Antilles form a chain of some 200 islands extending from south of Florida close to the coast of Venezuela.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Lincoln's Nationalism Often Overlooked by History.

DURING his lifetime, Abraham Lincoln was not regarded too favorably by the fellow citizens. Even members of his cabinet questioned his fitness for the presidency. Yet we now know that the image of Lincoln was one of nationality. He was never diverted by any side issue. Even the question of slavery was not, to him paramount. In a famous letter to Horace Greeley he says:

SOKOLSKY

"... What I would do to save the Union. I would save it in the shortest way under the Constitution. The sooner the national authority can be restored, the nearer the Union will be the Union as it was. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them. My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union and is not either to save or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone, I would also do that. What I do about slavery and the colored race, I do because I believe it helps to save the union; and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would help to save the Union ..."

Lincoln was, in this respect, a nationalist. As a matter of fact it was impossible for him to have been anything else. He was never faced with the problem of loving any other country as much as or more than his own country. He was not pro-British or pro-French or pro-Russian or pro-Arab. Nor was he anti any other country. He was simply an American concerned with the country of his birth.

Although Lincoln encountered Great Britain and Russia, he had not to concentrate all his attention and most of his activities on the fate of some 20 nations, most of which were admitted to the country and desired to become even more intimate. That load he did not have to bear. He was not torn by internal pressures of foreign origin nor by the combinations of such a forum as the United Nations. Where within the boundaries of his country, it is constantly being defamed and attacked. His was a simpler task because his focus was always clear. It was upon the United States of America. That was his aim.

The presidency of the United States was then, as it is now, an unbelievably difficult task for any man. The responsibility is greatest because the president walks alone. Everyone is willing to advise him, and our system of elections at stated intervals diverts him from a straight course to the weighing in the balance of popular sentiment the nothing of ephemeral opinion and excitement. Men who are charged with overwhelming tasks of administration need also to devote themselves to currying public favor like actresses playing for applause. Our leaders so often achieve the pinnacle of greatness only to debase themselves by truckling to miserable groups who, having built themselves a bit of influence, use it to force their will upon the president. And he dares not strike them down, as he should, because he dares not lose his strength in the congress.

Problem for All Presidents

This problem every president has faced and many have failed to maintain the balance between purpose and popularity. In recent years, Woodrow Wilson and Herbert Hoover failed to hold popularity although they adhered to principle and purpose. Lincoln managed to hold on. Never a popular president, he adhered adamantly to the purpose of saving the union and he did save it.

In the discussion of Lincoln's contribution to America, too little is made of his nationalism. But when one walks about the village of New Salem in Illinois, upon a hill, far away from the sea coasts, still far from large cities, isolated and secluded and of the soil, it is impossible not to realize that in such an atmosphere one can learn to thank God for America. Such a place is all American.

Just a Minute

A Few Thoughts Of Friday, the 13th

This is a good day not to go out looking for trouble.

So was yesterday.

As far as I am concerned, Friday the thirteenth is just the day after Thursday, the twelfth . . .

There's nothing to those silly superstitions, I told myself this morning at breakfats as I threw over my left shoulder the salt that I had spilled.

Only the ignorant place any credence in bad luck omens, I assured myself as I hastily retrieved my hat from where it had fallen on the bed.

I need the exercise, I said, as I walked around the ladder in the hall. It's chilly in here, I told myself, as the lady, getting on the streetcar, only half closed her umbrella.

This rabbit-foot? I only carry it for a gag. After all, what good did it do the original owner.

Dear Friend Indeed

By Harry A. McCrea

THERE is no record of a man conducting a woman's page question and answer column, but I don't see why it wouldn't be practical. If you'll tune down that soap opera on the radio, we'll have a practice run:

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: I am 16 years old and am considered good looking. There is a boy in my class who keeps winking at me. What does this mean? PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled: Obviously this young man has the tic, a nervous affliction. Whatever you do, don't wink back, as he would think you were making fun of him.

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: I am the girl who wrote you week before last week complaining about stringy hair and spotty complexion. You recommended egg shampoos and facial cocktails. I followed your instructions, and now my hair is lumpy instead of stringy, and as for the results of the cocktail, I am enclosing a physician's report on what it did. PERTURBED

Dear Perturbed: Well, we did get off to a bad start with you, didn't we? In the first place, you are not supposed to DRINK the facial cocktail. And as for the egg shampoo, you are not supposed to use the yolk. That's a yolk on you, isn't it? Ha ha.

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: We are two girls 17 years old and are considered extremely good looking. Our parents insist that we be in every night at 10. Don't you think this is too early? What is the home address, not the studio address, of James Stewart. SEVENTEEN.

Dear Seventeen: What do you want to be out after 10 o'clock for? I bet Jimmy Stewart wouldn't stay out at night if he had a home to go to. The last I heard he was bunking on a studio couch while trying to finance a loan under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: My husband beats me. I don't want to go to the police or the neighbors. What do you suggest? HEARTBROKEN.

Dear Heartbroken: You haven't given me any of the background facts in this case, so I can't tell what the underlying trouble is. Perhaps psychiatry is needed. But any woman who lets her husband beat her must be a spineless creature. In your kitchen is a whole arsenal of utensils, including the traditional rolling pin. Next time he raises a hand to you, bash his teeth in. If necessary, sneak up on him from behind.

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: I am engaged. My fiance wants to elope, while I want a church wedding. I don't think either of us is going to yield in this argument. What do you suggest? SAMANTHA LOU.

Dear Samantha Lou: Why not have a radio ceremony, be in a justice of the peace office in Greenup, Ky., you in the midst of your friends at a chancel beautifully decked with flowers? I'm sure it would be the talk of your set for months and months.

* * *

Dear Friend Indeed: How old do you think a girl should be before she should be allowed to paint her fingernails? Does a blue dress go well with red hair? How old does a girl have to be to marry without her parents' consent in West Virginia? Does the bridegroom pay for the bride's corsage? What is the meaning of RSVP? INQUISITIVE.

Dear Inquisitive: 80, depends on what the dress is draped on; 21, yes; sealed with a kiss.

It's Friday the Thirteenth

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Superstitious folk will be on the alert today for evil omens, and black cats will be watched closely, for this is an evil day, Friday the thirteenth.

The legend of misfortune befalling the lad whose path is crossed by a black cat is one of contradiction. In England the superstitious folk jump with joy when a black cat crosses the path in front of them, for they regard this omen as a sure sign of good luck. Perhaps the importation of English black cats would solve the problem for local dodgers of superstitious omens. No attempts of science to breed black cats to a battleship grey are recorded and it is doubtful if the experiment would materially affect the good or bad luck-making qualities of the cat in question.

The breaking of mirrors, dropping of forks, whistling girls, crowing hens, spilling salt, breaking wishbones, and rapping on wood, and even Friday the 13th, all pale to insignificance when compared to the year round evil omen of colored steamboat roustabouts of the lower Mississippi river. If a colored preacher riding a white mule is followed aboard a steamboat by a black cat, that steamboat will blow up before its destination is reached, or so the roustabouts say. This superstition is not expected to be observed in Marion, as steamboats stop here more regularly, which is unlikely until we get a river.

Marion basked in a spring-like temperature of 68 which brought reports of flowers beginning to push through the ground.

Wise of Kenton, district commander, was in charge of the men's business meeting and Mrs. Ruth Druery of Lima, district president of the auxiliary, presided for the women's meeting.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Feb. 13, 1928.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Havana in the "Spirit of St. Louis" on a non-stop flight to St. Louis, Mo. A congratulatory birthday message received by John A. Schroeter of East Center street, from his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Elmondson of New York City, who was in Havana, Cuba, told of an airplane flight made by her with the noted flier during his visit there.

Marion's first venture on the "border" of Sunday movies was a success according to a report from the Grand theater where the new venture was tried out the preceding night. A "near capacity" house attended the showing of "The Patent Leather Kid," starring Richard Barthelmess. The doors of the theater were opened at 11:39 p. m. but in order that the law against Sabbath entertainment might be strictly observed the show did not start until 12:05 a. m.

Political Consequences

By Raymond Moley

THE economic consequences of the new look at the grain situation are already appearing. The political consequences cannot be far behind.

Republican leaders in congress are unutterably relieved. A month ago they were facing the consequences of ignoring the President's request for a restoration of controls. If they had persisted in refusing to grant new powers to the President and prices had continued to rise, the political outlook by April would have been bad. A wave of strikes would have been inevitable, which would have stripped the Taft-Hartley Act of credit for greater industrial peace. A tax cut could have been attacked by Democrats as fuel on the fire of inflation. With high prices the major worry of Americans, the summer and fall would ring with Democratic denunciations of the Republicans who destroyed OPA and frustrated a hard-pressed President's struggle for the little man.

MOLEY

Now, for the time being at least, the shoe is on the other foot. To change the figure, Republican hopes, as well as a good wheat crop, are growing under the snow of a hard winter.

The great error of the International Emergency Food Council and of the administration in estimating the world explorable grain surplus at 29,000,000 tons is now apparent to everyone. Even the IEFC admits a surplus of 32,000,000 tons, and the real figure is probably nearer 34,000,000. The great bull market in grains was clearly due to the government's assurance that the lower figure was correct. The President's learned Council of Economic Advisers failed to advise the President in time.

The Speculators

The speculators whom the President "wicked" are either losing their shirts or are bringing lower prices to the housewife. And high on the beach after the tide is the memory of the members of the administration who themselves sought an honest penny in the market. The administration which was denouncing high prices is now rushing support for prices.

All the political possibilities in this changed situation will be eagerly exploited by Republicans. And it may well be that, among the Republican candidates, Taft will gain most from the change in conditions. His various replies to the President can be reviewed with credit.

The economic consequences are bound to be far-reaching. There is a chain reaction to such a break which can hardly be charted in advance, because so much depends not upon mathematics but on public psychology. Both in the United States and abroad, people are asking whether this is the beginning of a great depression.

Lowered National Income

There is one consequence, however, which applies to government and the respective strategists of the parties. If things continue to level off, even short of a real recession, the national income will come down. This might well justify a considerable revision of the estimated size of the treasury surplus. That means that senate Republicans must consider very seriously the size of a tax reduction program.

It also means that, while our dollars will buy more relief for Europe, the total size of the Marshall expenditures will be considered with greater care. This present decline does not, of course, lessen Europe's need, but it affects our total capacity to meet that need.

CROSSTOWN By Roland Coe

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Lines on the Present Winter In Lots of Places

In forty-seven-forty-eight
The winter never did abate;
It went from bad to extra rare—
There never was the slightest thaw.

The icicles of early fall
Had not decreased by March at all,
Decembers frost on windowpane
Each morning showed a one-yard gain.

By keynole in the kitchen door
The snow came in six feet and more;
Storm-windows gave up everywhere—
They couldn't take the frigid air!

* * *

Hot water bottles by the pack
Just froze upon the feet and back.
A woolen blanket charged with heat
Felt like a strip of frozen sheet.

The radiator and its tubes
Gave out with nothing but ice cubes.
The furnace gave no trace of heat.
We used the wiring for freezing meat!

A head cold was a bitter cup—
Our aspirin was all frozen up!
The doctor said "Stick out your tongue!"
It froze and in the open hung!

* * *

The car was icebound in the shed,
The battery and motor dead;
Our telephone got frozen so
No voice got through but Eskimo.

The clock gave up and turned quite blue—
(If you were that cold you'd quit, too!)
To boil an egg I tried today . .
It gave whipped cream! I let it lay.

* * *

The percolator wouldn't work—
The teapot said "No heat, no work!"—
Some hotcakes mother tried to fry . .
The stuff came out Alaskan pie!

She made some soup with beans and peas . .
It came out snowball fricassee;
A beef stew she then took a fling
It came up ice cake a la king.

The parlor lamp we couldn't light;
The bulb had felt the wintry blight;
The doorbell quit and would not ring;
It left a note "Be back next spring."

The weather man kept saying "Snow;
And by the morning ten below!"...
We have an icebox big and fat . .
We'll see if we can live in that!

Dog Champs

This is the dog show season and we award the following awards.

Minerva's Ace III—Shows splendid discretion, despite all the substitutes fed her for meat. Alligazammus Dude.—Has never bitten the butcher, although conscious of fact the tightwad hasn't thrown in a few beef scraps in two years.

King Whiffenpoof's Babe II:—Still likes human beings after having lived in Manhattan apartment all life, with two brief trips outdoors each day.

"Doctor says Body Shrinks During Daytime"—headline.

And on what we are able to buy today, in the night time, too.

"Residents of the housing units for veterans are on a rent strike charging that the roofs leak, the doors are warped and the outer walls cracked."—News item.

Next Time Around

By TRUMAN TWILL

Some want one thing if they're reincarnated, some want another, but as for me—just fix me up with a 200-pound body, a pair of sledge-hammer fists and the muscular coordination of Joe Louis. There are a few things that need to be taken care of the next time around, it seems. Such as—

1. The goon in the automobile behind you who keeps tooting his horn when there's no place for you to vanish into for his convenience. This will be sweet revenge—just to stop suddenly, climb out leisurely, stroll back, jerk open the door on the driver's side, haul out the goon driver, beat out his brains systematically, then stuff them back—in the glove compartment.

2. The fuzz-brain that starts pushing in a crowd—not big, brave pushes, but furtive, sneaky pushes when he thinks you aren't looking. This specimen will be picked up by the scruff of the neck and carried to the nearest incinerator for a long-term deposit. The scruff will be retained for a souvenir. Anyone turning in 50 scruffs will be entitled to a new model of Lana Turner.

3. The cold-eyed weasel that walks like a man and makes its living by thinking like a weasel, relying on the confusion this creates to keep it from being picked up by the hind leg and swung—hard—against a tree until removed perfectly harmless for all time to come. In this case, of course, laws about trapping and hunting game out of season would be observed scrupulously.

4. The jowly character with the thick neck, the thick middle and the thick wrists that shove others into place ahead of everybody else when ever people are waiting their turn—depending on bluster to get away with it. No harm would be done to this porcine pest—nothing but a fist planted in his midriff, about ankle deep.

5. The beady-eyed, sour-faced old woman with an umbrella and a pair of sharp elbows which she uses to override whatever straws or elements of civilization may happen to stand in her way. A 200-pound man striking an old lady? Perish the thought. But 200 pounds would come in handy after telling the old harridan to mind a broom and fly away, because chivalry surely would rear its pointed head and want to start a fight with anyone who dared to challenge the notion that old women are always sweet and gentle.

6. Inebriates with special emphasis on loud ones. No time would be wasted in futile efforts to persuade them to be quiet. They would simply be removed. No violence would be done. They would just be removed, see, but in a way that would rob them of all desire to come back.

7. And whatever strength was left—there should be a lot in a 200-pound body—would be dedicated to skinny kids who get pushed around by big muscular ones and, consequently, grow up wishing they could weigh 200 pounds some day, to redress a few grievances of long standing.

Daily Bible Thought

We cannot decide in what manner and at what time God shall reveal himself to us. He chooses his own way and his own time. If we were ourselves silent and listening it would help more than shouting and demanding our own kind of answer.—Jb. 35:12: "They cry, but none giveth answer."

MEMBERS of the Art club invited a group of friends interested in nature study to join them for a program of bird studies last evening at the Federation Home. The program centered on John James Audubon, American ornithologist, and providing a setting were pictures of birds done by noted artists.

Mrs. B. F. Blake, president of the Art club, welcomed the guests and Miss Mabel Wheatley, program chairman, presided for the program which opened with two piano numbers, "If I Were a Bird," by Henselt and "Two Larks," Leschetizky, played by Mrs. O. D. Anderson. Miss Wheatley gave an informal talk on the prints throughout the rooms and showed many other interesting subjects. She included in her talk a description of the early art of engraving and printing. Completing the program was a talk on the life of Audubon and his work by Miss Bess Snider and Mrs. John H. The bride chose for her wedding an aqua two-piece dress with which she combined black and sapphire colored accessories.

Jewish Women Observe 52nd Anniversary

THE Marion Council of Jewish Women celebrated the fifty-second anniversary of the founding of the Council when members held a joint meeting with the men's club, B'nai B'rith, Tuesday evening in the temple on East Center street.

Members and guests were welcomed by Mrs. B. Goodman, council president. A resume of the council history was given by Mrs. A. Scroen. The local section was organized by the late Mrs. S. G. Kleinmaier with 12 charter members in 1896, none of whom are living today. Mrs. Kleinmaier, who gained her inspiration from an address by Hannah Solomon, national council founder, was the moving spirit of Marion section during the 21 years of her presidency. The national council has grown until today it represents 65,000 women in 215 sections in the U. S. and Canada, participating in local, national and international projects.

Marion council was the first to introduce and sponsor the sale of articles made by the blind, organized a program of sight conservation providing glasses for needy school children, and always has been active in community projects.

Speaker was Emil Zabell, regional representative of the Bellefaire children's home, Cleveland. He spoke on "Child Welfare Services to Jewish Children." He stressed the fact that Bellefaire is not an orphanage in the strict sense of the word but follows a new and modern trend in trying to adjust the children mentally and physically after a break-up of family ties and then place them in good foster homes.

A social hour followed the program and a decorated birthday cake topped with candles forming the numbers "52" centered the table. Spread with a lace cloth, the table held an antique silver coffee and tea service and silver candelabra with white candles. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. B. Goodman, Mrs. S. Rosenberg and Mrs. N. Browarsky. The program was in charge of Mrs. Ben Lenavitt and the social hour was in charge of Mrs. Ben Salzman.

Officers of the council for the current year are Mrs. B. Goodman, president, Mrs. J. Halberstein, vice president, Mrs. L. Coverman, recording secretary, Mrs. L. Huhn, corresponding secretary and Miss Irene Huhn, treasurer.

ARABS POUR INTO PALESTINE

Correspondent Says They Are Well Armed and Spoiling for Fight.

Arabs are massing on the Palestine frontier between Dan to Beersheba in preparation for the same objective there as in the Arabian sector.

By SAM SOUKI

ON NORTH PALESTINE FRONTIER, Feb 12—Hundreds of Arabs, their rifles slung loosely in their crooked arms, are pouring into Palestine before my eyes.

Hundreds more crossed the border from Syria and Lebanon in the last 48 hours.

The men here told me that there are at least 7,000 of their fellows already inside Palestine.

There is evidence that these men are preparing for a major operation against the Jews.

They wear Arabic uniforms. They cross the border as easily as you cross a quiet street.

Right over there is a mountain village, somewhere in the Levant, from which Palestine is just a walk over the hilltop. And this is only one of the points where the Arabs are moving into Palestine as the time approaches for the withdrawal of the British and the imposition of the United Nations' partition mandate.

I arrived by jeep after a back-breaking trips of many weary hours over muddy mountain tracks.

It is a scene of tremendous activity. Armed Arabs hustle back and forth from the market place in the village, unloading trucks.

When I pulled up in the village a crowd gathered around one man, acting as spokesman, demanded identification papers. He relaxed when I showed him my credentials.

Then I watched the men unload a cargo of rifles which were handed down from a truck to the "Mojaheddeen"—the fighters of the Jihad or holy war for which Arab spiritual leaders called when the UN decision to partition Palestine was announced.

The man directing them spoke to me:

"You come upon one of our concentrations here. From here we cross into Palestine, just over the hilltop. There we disperse to villages and great positions.

"The village is our store room for food. The trucks here brought rifles and ammunition. They go mainly to Palestine Arabs in the area.

"But we are well equipped. And we are here to get started."

My self-appointed guide gestured.

"Over there are the Zionist settlements. At different places along the border the British operate their immigration control offices and Arabs and Jews cross.

"At the Palestine border Arabs are always allowed through in large numbers."

The Arab fighters in the hills sometimes swoop down on the Jews. Two days ago a small force of Arab Jihad supply couriers headed for the settlements in northern Palestine and killed two Jews.

"The Zionists retaliated," my guide related. "They attacked an Arab village and burned two houses. They saw a Lebanese Arab sowing in his field just across the border, and they crossed and captured him. They dragged him to the settlement of Manara and put two bullets through his head. Then they threw him into the field. That's all we know. We found him. He was alive. They brought him to us."

"It's small now, but it won't be long before we can really swing into action."

TAX TEST

Sue threatened to withhold the final payment of her 1942 income tax and invest it in war bonds as a "post-war reserve." She finally paid the tax.

Sue was involved in a wrangle with the office of censorship in 1944 over "books" from her personal correspondence with Count Frederick Von Zedlitz, German steel representative in Argentina. She demanded the impeachment of Rep. John M. Coffee, of Washington, for reading excerpts from her letters on the floor of congress. The affair quieted down after investigation by the senate post office committee.

LEAP YEAR

"from the boss to his secretary," "for my favorite mailman," "to my pet brother-in-law," and "wonder of wonders, even one for my dear mother-in-law."

A lot of these valentines are really enjoyable to receive. You still can get the gooey sweet variety but today's valentine verses have a new snap and sparkle. Illustrations are likely to be of smart cute children and engaging, though improbable, talking animals rather than the simpering Gibson girl by the garden gate which was the standby of the trade for too many years.

Next, One That Lights Up

It's a pleasure to report that inflation has not made much progress in the valentine field. You still can get a nice handful with envelopes for 50 to 60 cents, and for the old "killer diller" of the would-be funny boys at the office and the shop, the so-called "comic" valentine still is available from a penny each to three for a dime, depending on the size, the hideousness of the illustration, and the pithiness of the sentiment.

From the progress the valentine makers are showing, don't be too surprised if you open an envelope some fine Feb. 14 and find that, like this year's neckties, your valentine lights up.

Before Death, FDR Wrote About John Paul Jones

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—An examination of the papers of the late President Roosevelt had disclosed that he was working on a biography of John Paul Jones during his last year in the White House.

His son, Elliott, said yesterday that "no one knew he had been working on it, not even mother," until Mrs. Roosevelt found a synopsis of the naval hero's life among the President's papers.

TAFT

"hard-boiled" plan of European aid, Taft starts plowing friendly political fields here.

With two speeches in Omaha and one in Council Bluffs, Iowa, the Ohican officially starts a drive that will reach its peak two months hence in the Nebraska April 13 preferential primary.

For the first time in that race, Taft's friends said he will have the chance to lay low the specter that has dogged his presidential candidacy—the widespread contention he could not win in November even if nominated in June.

If Taft could top the field of candidates in that test, his supporters think such a victory would give him a tremendous boost in his nomination bid.

The Ohio senator himself appeared confident. He told reporters he thinks he has "a good chance" to get the support of Nebraska's 15 delegates. Going to the convention unpledged, they may be influenced by the outcome of the preferential vote.

Mrs. Taft Packs Neat Left Jab

By The United Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 12—Sen. Taft's No. 1 booster took a veiled crack at the Ohio Republican's No. 1 midwestern rival today.

Addressing a Kiwanis club luncheon, Mrs. Robert Taft told some 600 listeners that she "frankly came here campaigning for my husband for president."

"But we can't spend as much time as we'd like to at it," she said. "My husband, of course, has an important job in the United States senate. He's not JUST a candidate."

Mrs. Harold E. Stassen, sitting two seats away, didn't flinch. Her ex-governor husband, currently campaigning in Pennsylvania for delegates to the GOP convention, IS just a candidate.

PRICES

Stocks were irregular and activity was moderate. Price changes were small.

At Chicago, sellers were holding hogs at about yesterday's prices of $23.75 to $24.25 a hundred pounds. The best bid shortly after the opening was $23.50.

The pits hardly more than opened at Chicago when soybeans were offered at the eight cent limit decline from Wednesday's prices.

The question in economic and political circles was whether the problem was inflation or deflation.

MARION BANKERS' GROUP ATTENDS STATE MEETING

Representatives of local banks joined others in the state at a one-day mid-winter meeting of the Ohio Bankers association yesterday in Columbus. They heard Gov. Thomas H. Herbert call for voluntary action against inflation and condemn government regulations, and an official of the American Bankers association urged participation in the ABA credit control program, an Associated Press dispatch reported.

Attending from Marion were Francis B. Huber, Floyd Cornely, Maynard Smith and Charles Sens of the staff and Henry A. Mickley, a director of the Fahey Banking Co., E. L. Bush, Russel C. Snare, W. K. Tobin and Henry A. True of the Marion County bank and from the National City bank were Robert E. White, Walter C. Haldeman, Ralph C. Hurr, Ralph Q. White, William Anderson, Paul H. Naher and Harold Van Gorden.

Y'S MEN AND WIVES ARE PARTY GUESTS

Dinner and Dance Given by Club Co-Ed.

Y's Men's club members and their wives were entertained last night at the Y.M.C.A. by members of Club Co-Ed.

During the dinner President Myers introduced Mrs. Don Yoder, Mrs. Robert McKeever and Mrs. Carl Sheene as wives of new members. The door prize was presented to Mrs. Harold Henry, and Mrs. James Creeger was consoled with a gift in recognition of the fact that she had failed to win the prize for the first time in three years.

Following adjournment to the Club Co-ed rooms, James Creeger, substituting for Russ Summon, present Co-ed chairman, briefly outlined the history of the organization. He mentioned that it was organized on its present basis in January of 1944 under sponsorship of the Y's Men and under the direct supervision of Mr. and Mrs. William Luse. As evidence of the popularity it enjoys among high school students, he read from a Y.M.C.A. report made by Mrs. Seltzer, the present hostess, that the attendance figure for 22 nights during January 1948 was 2505.

Master of ceremonies for show was Clark Daugherty, who also doubled as a member of the orchestra, which included Harland Ambrose, Fred Ray, Robert Wingett and Richard Madison. Two vocal numbers were sung by Anne Ferguson's all-girl ensemble—members of the group being Yvonne Metzger, Polly Biggert, Mary Ellen Hinamon, Dorothy Rhodes, Marjorie Middleton, Nancy Anthony, and Joyce Snyder. Mary Ellen Hinamon also played a piano solo, "Bumble Boogie."

A quartet of Harding footballers, James Coss, James Hill, Robert Ralston and Jack Hoffman sang several selections including the "Street Urchins Medley." Billed as "Homer and Jethro," James Ray and "Beanie" Lyon combined music and comedy in a fast-moving act.

Before turning the evening over to dancing, President Myers congratulated Mr. and Mrs. James Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Bachelder and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Arthur for handling the dinner arrangements.

Forecast of Freezing Eases River Ice Fear

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13—Fears of further damage to tied-up navigation in Ohio river harbors here diminished today with the promise of continued above-freezing temperatures.

"With prospects that extremely cold temperatures will not soon occur, it is believed that conditions are favorable for continued disintegration of river ice," said Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, chief of the division corps of U. S. Engineers.

CITES RUSSIAN STRENGTH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—A Republican congressman from Pennsylvania, James G. Van Zandt, told a Columbus Lincoln day banquet last night Russia could take Europe and part of Asia in three weeks by force of arms. The Soviet Union, he said, has 175 fully equipped divisions, 14,500 planes and 260 submarines.

OIL SHORTAGE CAUSES BUS RUN CANCELLATION

The suspension of the Columbus to Chicago run of the Pennsylvania Greyhound lines which stopped at Marion at 3:44 a. m. daily has been cancelled because of the shortage of diesel oil which fuels the motors of the buses.

Local representatives of the company had no information as to whether the suspension of the run was permanent or whether it would be restored upon an easing of the fuel situation.

This is the first elimination by the company of a scheduled run serving Marion, although three scheduled Toledo to Cincinnati runs which bypass Marion have been cut.

All buses arriving at the Greyhound terminal here have been running late this morning because of icy conditions of roads north and east of here. Roads to the west as far as Lima were rated "pretty good" by incoming drivers, although dangerous icing conditions exist west of Lima.

Weatherman Throws The Book at Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—The weatherman threw the book at Ohio today.

This is what he forecast:

"Some snow or freezing rain in north and mostly rain in south portion Friday, followed by some freezing rain or snow by night.

For Saturday, he dreamed up the following:

"Cloudy with snow flurries and colder."

Ohio's fuel situation continued none too bright. At Tiffin, Mayor Virgil R. Bennehoff said the Ohio Oil Co. of Findlay offered to make emergency shipment of 5,000 gallons of fuel oil to ease the city's critical shortage.

Bennehoff said the shipment probably would provide relief long enough to permit customers to convert to other types of fuel.

The expected colder weather, while moderate compared to temperatures in past weeks, may create another public emergency in fuel gas. Only industry is short in gas rations at the moment.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"YES Carlotta Carroll agreed. It was Otto who needed that bold and ... ally, the ... would be the ideal person to hit it off.

"He told me, what I already knew, that his mother was now married to Philip Veritzen—how Otto gnashed his royal teeth over that—while standing by the side of Laura, for whom he had given up a kingdom. He said that with my journalistic and radio connections it would be easy for me to meet Mr Veritzen, and his mother, and he was kind enough to say that I ought to be able to put the thing over, forging of letters from her, I mean.

'Of course,' she said, 'he didn't expect I could get Olga to give me specimens of her handwriting, and a supply of her notepaper and envelopes. But he did expect that I could get on such terms with her that she would write friendly notes to me on her notepaper, giving me the opportunity to study, and copy, her handwriting, and that I could contrive to steal a supply of her stationery at some visit to her. He seemed to be sure that we would be on fairly intimate terms."

I made the mental comment that Otto had judged his mother correctly. Carlotta Carroll was a girl who would appeal both to Olga's critical taste and to her warm heart. She would receive her into intimacy when she should come to know her well.

"Of course," Carlotta burned on, "I expected, when I got back here to let the whole thing drop, except for watching the chance to get my information into someone's hands who could do something about it.

"I was helpless. Then, like an angel from Heaven 'K' bobbed up into my life again. I hadn't seen him for ages, not since long before I had made my visit home, and to all my inquiries about him—I had thought of telling him this story as soon as I reached New York—I got the answer that he was out of town, as he was.

"You can wager I lost no time in spilling all this stuff about Otto to him, and he said at once that it fitted in with a problem of his own, that he didn't specify—you probably all know what a clam 'K' is'—she flashed a mischievous smile at him, and that he would like my permission to tell my story to his superior officer.

"He came back from that interview to ask me to come over to this house to see the Chief"—she flashed another naive smile at my father—"and he at once made the astounding proposition to furnish me with the handwriting and the notepaper of Otto's mother. I do not know as yet just what use he wishes me to make of them, but I do know that I am at his service, and if I can be of any help in smashing Otto's dastardly plan, I shall be very glad. I owe him something," she went on with something vindictive in her voice for so young one up as a girl who was great and loyal for him.

But it was the instinctive act of a moment. I had been a seeress I would have predicted that it was the child-like quality in Carlotta Carroll which always would impress us most, even despising it, be envy, her hypocrisy, and her ... prove shrewdness.

We all, even my father, laughed heartily at her unexpected touch of shrewishness, and then "the Chief" gave us what I always have called his "school-dismissed look."

"I will see you tomorrow Miss Carroll," he said, "and we will talk over our campaign. I have a very definite one for you."

"I am so glad," she said. "I love action of any kind."

"You'll get plenty of it," my father told her, smiling, 'so get a good rest tonight. Now 'K' I should like to have you take Miss Carroll home. Telephone for our regular taxi. The street is clear, and I think it ... safe. S ... please ... keep ... eye ...

"I ... back" ... ing ... man ... a ... Carlotta Carroll ... with the Chief's secrets, apparently had not included the information ... Kings Georges of Trees was ... captain ... the Valewood ... and that Mr ... and I were to ... him to the ... Sag Harbor ... house ... a few more ... utes.

A BATTLE IS WON— BUT NOT A WAR

All-out Aid of Homes, Business Places and Industries Helped Gas Service Through a Severe Crisis

At no time has our system operated at such low pressures without a single community being out of gas—nor has there ever been a time when we delivered more gas.

The winter of prolonged, extreme temperatures—which we had hoped against—finally arrived. We had informed our customers that pipe, compressors and other equipment of our trade had been received in too small quantities to furnish enough gas to cope with such weather. Certain anticipated supplies of gas for this winter failed to arrive, adding to the difficulties.

DELIVERIES FALL SHORT

The Columbia Gas System, of which we are a part, receives some 188 million cubic feet of gas a day from the Tennessee Gas & Transmission Corporation. By January 1st this amount was to be increased to 227 million cubic feet, but completion of their construction program was delayed and the increase was not received. The promise had been made for 233 million cubic feet a day for February, but could not be met again for the same reason. Help cannot be had from this source until later in the month or perhaps March 1st.

Columbia has been receiving about 95 million cubic feet of gas a day from The Texas Eastern Pipe Line Company (Big and Little Inch Lines). The amount expected by this time was 140 million. Construction of additional compressor stations has been their problem. We believe these supplying companies did their best. They had their difficulties too. However, had The Ohio Fuel Gas Company received its share of gas from these sources, our problems would have been far less difficult.

The propane storage tanks at two points in our system were intended to bolster gas supplies only during the peak period of demand on the coldest days. Instead, we had to draw on this emergency supply, day after day, until it was exhausted. Specially constructed tank cars and tank trucks necessary to move additional propane to our tanks were practically unavailable.

CUSTOMER SAVINGS HELPED

Disappointments—yes! The one hopeful note was the great savings of gas in homes, business places and industries. After full industrial curtailment, customer sacrifices often were the only margin between our operating and being out of gas. Customers in some communities experienced service difficulties.

To all of these who made sacrifices, during the public emergency, we express a heartfelt THANK YOU. Most helpful, too, was the action of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, curtailing commercial gas, and of the Federal Power Commission in diverting gas from outside sources into this area. Assistance of the press and radio was invaluable in keeping the public informed.

Normal service again prevails to homes and commercial establishments. However, industries still are being denied gas to insure service to homes. The more gas saved by those now enjoying normal service, the sooner industries can return to full operation.

The weather might easily dictate other emergencies before winter is past. Promised help from supplying companies may come in time to assist. Before another winter comes, greatly increased quantities of gas—not mentioned here—should be flowing into our system. Again to those who helped, perhaps at great trials of patience, we say

The proof and auditing departments and the directors' room have been moved to the air-conditioned basement of the building in the space formerly occupied by Abel's billiard parlor. In this department have been installed the latest in mechanical and electrical bookkeeping equipment and photographic safeguards for bank transactions. Here is kept the large Recordak machine which automatically photographs individually 166 checks a minute, taking pictures of both sides of the check simultaneously. In this way all paper passing through the bank each day may be photographed on microfilm and retained as a permanent record for future reference. A new Recordak projector which brings the microfilm pictures back to full size has been installed to show papers which have been filmed on a ground glass screen, not only in the usual way but sideways, upside down, and in reverse.

Lamps Destroy Bacteria

Throughout, the bank rooms are equipped with germicidal lamps which destroy harmful bacteria in the air. Sound absorbent materials such as sabonite acoustical plaster and acoustical tile are employed wherever possible to reduce noise to a minimum. This is particularly noticeable in the basement directors' room, which, although underground at the busiest corner in the city and immediately next to the large auditing room with its banks of whirring proof and posting machines, remains completely silent.

From its aluminum lever acuon doors to its 50-foot candle-power spot lights over the tellers' desks the building looks little like the time-honored picture of a bank with dark barred cages and shiny cuspidors. Its appearance is as bright and trim as the bronze eagle which surmounts the three-eighths inch black glass and stainless steel door to the tellers' counter.

Eagles Plan Dance To Mark Anniversary

A social event on the lodge calendar will be the "Spirit of '98" dance to be held Saturday night for members of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles and families. Plans for the dance, which is in keeping with the national lodge's fiftieth anniversary, were announced by the entertainment chairman, George Haymbe, at a regular meeting Wednesday night in the lodge hall. Those attending the dance are asked to wear costumes popular at that time.

Four applications were balloted on and plans were discussed for initiation of the Golden Jubilee class on Sunday, Feb. 29. Gene Williams, membership chairman, reported on the progress of the campaign. Joseph Gunderman of St. Marys, deputy grand auditor, was a guest and gave an informal talk complimenting the lodge on its activities. Announcement was made of an entertainment to be held in the social rooms Friday night.

Following the lodge session the members were joined by the women's auxiliary for progressive euchre and a social hour. Lunch was served by the entertainment committee headed by Dale Guyton, chairman.

Superstitions Are Costly Time Wasters But They Linger On

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—If you think breaking a mirror means bad luck, you can blame the idea on a pagan ancestor who saw his face reflected from a still pool of water.

He thought the reflection was his own spirit staring at him out of the world of spirits. When mirrors were invented, the idea lingered on. Breaking the image meant breaking contact with the spirit world, and that was bad medicine.

Friday the 13th is "unlucky" for two reasons, says John R. Saunders, associate curator of education at the American Museum of Natural History. Thirteen always has been regarded as an unlucky number, just as seven was considered lucky. The crucifixion occurred on Friday, making it an unfortunate day.

Saunders, whose hobby is studying the hundreds of superstitions and nonsensical beliefs that still thrive in this atomic age, says Americans spend at least $125,000,000 annually on fortune tellers. They have bought at least 10,000,000 rabbits' feet, paying from a dime to five dollars a paw. They spend more millions, he adds, on charms, love-potions, powders, dream books, horoscopes and other items.

Greater Waste

"But an even greater cost is in wasted time in thinking about or obeying superstitions, and in fuzzy thinking. Superstitions live because people will believe what they want to believe, and won't look for the facts. Progress in solving our modern-day problems will call for clear heads, and for not so much willingness to swallow half-truths or apparent statements of fact without examining them."

That's how most superstitions got started, Saunders explains. He cites the likely explanations for some favorites:

Black Cats: Since prehistoric times, black has represented the forces of darkness and evil. Cats for centuries were sacred animals. They also were the companions of witches. A black cat crossing your path meant double trouble. But in some parts of the world, they are considered good luck.

Rabbit's Foot: The left hind foot of a rabbit is a mighty lucky thing to have—if you're a rabbit. It gives half the kick to scoot away from danger. This may be why humans came to regard it as a good luck charm. It's an old idea, probably similar to the primitive practice of eating the heart of a brave warrior in the belief that his courage was stored there.

Walking under a ladder: There's a good safety reason for not doing so, but the superstition apparently dates back to pagan times when a triangle represented the three symbols that were vital part of many ceremonies or beliefs. A ladder forms a triangle, and breaking the triangle might cause bad luck.

Finding a four-leaf clover: There's a legend that the four-leaf clover was the only thing that Eve took from the Garden of Eden, aside from the purely practical fig leaves. A perhaps sounder reason for thinking it's good luck is the symbolism of the number "four." To primitive people, four was powerful medicine. There were the four winds, the four corners of the earth, et cetera.

Lucky and unlucky days: There are many of these. The Aztecs, who were good astronomers and also interested in astrology, would even postpone a battle if it would start on an "unlucky day." Birthday dates were changed for children born on unlucky days.

Love-Potions: Sending her flowers would do better, but love-potions still have sales. One is Snow of Jordan, consisting of a drop of milk of magnesia in a vial of water.

Gambling: There are those who swear that getting up and walking around the table will break a streak of bad luck in cards. In certain parts of the United States you can buy "two-pass powder" which "guarantees" winning your point twice in a row in dice. Four-pass powders are available, too, at higher cost naturally.

Will's Proud of His Big Ears

Will Dudley's mighty proud of his big ears! Best crop of corn he's grown since '38. And Will, like so many other farmers, has plenty of reason to be proud of what he raises.

The farmer has always been a keystone in our economic life, and the key to our national well-being. But from where I sit, he's more important now than ever. He's not only feeding America—but friends of America overseas—building good will for this country at a time when friendship for democracy is most important.

And farmers have willingly shouldered that responsibility. Will spends extra hours in his cornfield ... comes home tired to a temperate glass of beer and early bed, to be ready for the next day's work.

From where I sit, America can be mighty grateful for her five million farmers ... for their productivity, hard work, and temperate living—of which Will's moderate glass of beer is proof!

Letters from Our Readers

THE EVIL OF PREJUDICE

Editor of The Star: I was reading in the Friday, Feb. 6, edition of The Marion Star about the southern Democrats' objection to President Truman's demand to give the Negroes some of the civil rights that they have been denied and to which they are entitled.

It is too bad that this country, which should have the least amount of race prejudice, has the most. This country, composed of people of every nationality, race and religion, living side by side, should be filled with so much jealousy and prejudice. It is not only the southerners who are filled with hatred for the Negro, but a large per cent of our northerners. Nor is the Negro the only one of our minority groups being persecuted, but also people of other nationalities and faiths.

Let us each search our hearts, especially those who are Christians, and see if we have any prejudice against those of other races and creeds. Our Bible tells us that we cannot enter Heaven if our hearts are filled with prejudice. Even if we're permitted to enter Heaven with such evil in our hearts, we would not be happy there for, praise the Lord, there will be people of every color and nationality there!

Let us put ourselves in their place and see what it would be like. Suppose you boarded a street car and had the conductor tap you on the shoulder and say, "Negroes sit in the back, Bud." Or you were walking down the hall in school one day and overheard two boys whispering, "Abie can't join our club. He's a Jew." Or you were applying for a job and the man behind the desk glared at you and said, "We don't hire dirty Japs here. This is an American firm."

While in France during the recent war I had the privilege of spending many enjoyable evenings in the home of a French Protestant minister who attended our church worship services. When I first entered his home I noticed a plaque on his living room wall in English with the following verse inscribed: "Clime or Color, Caste or Creed, brotherly love is what we need."

We should stop and think about this race problem and try to be a little more understanding of other groups. Perhaps you can recall, as I do, our childhood in Sunday school when we sang that beautiful hymn, "Jesus loves the little children. All the children of the world. Red and yellow, black and white, All are precious in His sight. Jesus loves the little children of the world."

CLYDE E. RECH,
540 Davids street.

WORKERS VIA AIR

Editor of The Star: Maybe it is my Irish, I don't know, but sometimes I am irked at something or other, and this time it is big biz and their doings. I like to get these things off my chest, if any one will listen to me.

I see where a northern Ohio steel plant is having Puerto Ricans flown in to work, in a DC-3 transport plane, by a farm labor agency of Philadelphia. The workers are to be paid $45 to $90 per week. Not bad, but a far cry from this was the 52-20 the returning vets collected, and some are still collecting.

I would gladly ride from no farther south than Marion county in a Piper Cub for less than $90 per week.

I personally contacted this steel plant, wanting a job, having two skills. I was refused employment because of a rigid examination.

I don't know what Big Steel's plans are, but I bet two-bits they are not honorable.

Incidentally, Puerto Ricans by act of congress in 1917 were given full rights as American citizens. Puerto Ricans above the ages of ten, 40 per cent are illiterate, so the book says. Probably this firm picked out of the other 60 per cent. One thing is true, and that the steel plants are on the big push for more ste[illegible] that we know.

Now I used to be familiar with big steel hiring of three classes of labor—A, B and C—the latter being the starting rate, and B in between starting and top rate.

You can bet that the new fly boys will get all the overtime that they want and when they reach B or A rate the company will be ready for them to go back to Puerto Rico, leaving the old union men to pay local and federal taxes.

One time I had the opportunity to work with a bunch of Mexicans, shipped by a sugar beet factory from Mexico in special trains and buses to Michigan. I talked to one of the company officials and he said they were short of help, and I know why, because this firm had no union to maintain wages so an American couldn't maintain his standard of living.

I hope that we will never see the day when big biz Taft and Harney get together with a few jet jobs and fly foreigners into this country in the mornings and back to their homes after work. It might break our unions.

D. A. McGOWAN,
567 Mound street.

MRS. LEHMAN HOSTESS TO MEMBERS OF W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Emma Lehman of Windsor street was hostess to the Florence Richards W.C.T.U. Tuesday for an all-day sewing meeting. The time was spent in sewing rags and a potluck dinner was served at noon. For the program in charge of Mrs. Lloyd McCleary, readings were given by Mrs. P. B. Vermillion, Mrs. Fred Needels and Mrs. McCleary, and devotions were conducted by Mrs. Fred Upton. Mrs. Susie Parr and Mrs. T. Stevens were welcomed as new members. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Leona Sanderson on Davids street.

LAKE POINT BANK
PAY TO America's Farmers + Ranchers $1,782,472,718.00
ONE BILLION, SEVEN HUNDRED EIGHTY TWO MILLION, FOUR HUNDRED SEVENTY TWO THOUSAND, SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN DOLLARS
Swift & Co

For your livestock and your dairy and poultry products, soybeans, cottonseed, etc. . . . you ranchers and farmers of America received in 1947 almost thirty billion dollars, a new high.

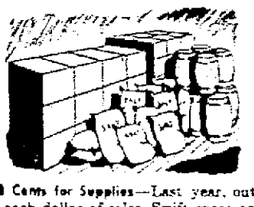
Out of that amount, $1,782,472,718 came to you from Swift & Company in payment for the products you sold to us. Of every dollar that we took in from the sale of our products, we paid to you an average of 79.3¢ for your products.

Together we are doing a big, vital job of helping feed millions of families in America and in many foreign lands. Neither of us can do that job without the other. Since we are in this together and dependent upon each other, we feel that you have an interest in knowing how we have handled our end of this "joint operation." This page is our way of telling you. It shows you how we handled, in 1947, our business of processing and marketing. It shows how much money we took in, where it went to, and what services we performed to earn our 1¢ profit per dollar of sales.

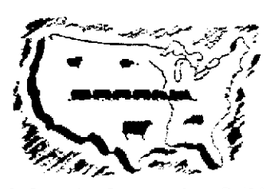
HOW SWIFT'S DOLLAR WAS DIVIDED

79.3 Cents to Producers—Swift & Company, during 1947, returned to millions of producers of agricultural products an average of 79.3 cents out of each dollar received from sales. We provide a daily cash market for your livestock, dairy, poultry and other products.

9.7 Cents to Employes—In 1947, Swift's 73,000 employes earned $217,072,169 in wages and salaries, or an average of 9.7 cents out of each dollar of Swift sales. It takes many skilled people to process livestock and other raw agricultural products into Swift's quality foods.



3.8 Cents for Supplies—Last year, out of each dollar of sales, Swift spent an average of 3.8 cents, or a total of $86,005,885, on supplies of all kinds—mountains of salt and sugar; trainloads of boxes, barrels, other containers; miles of twine, tons of paper; fuel, electricity, etc.



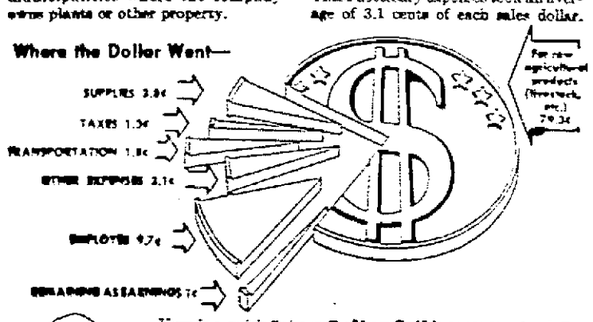
1.8 Cents for Transportation—Swift's transportation bill was $41,053,244 in 1947, or an average of 1.8 cents of each sales dollar. Approximately ⅔ of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River, ⅔ of the meat is eaten east of it. Swift service bridges this average 1,000-mile gap between America's producers and consumers.

1.3 Cents for Taxes—Our total tax bill in 1947 was $25,915,888. This averaged 1.3 cents out of each dollar Swift received for the products it sold. In addition to federal taxes, Swift & Company paid taxes during 1947 in each of the 48 states, and in hundreds of municipalities where the company owns plants or other property.

3.1 Cents for Other Expenses—Among other necessary business costs are depreciation, interest, employe benefits, sales promotion, rent, research, insurance, development of new products, advertising, stationery, postage, telephone, telegraph, passenger travel, etc. These necessary expenses took an average of 3.1 cents of each sales dollar.

1 Cent on Earnings—The Company's 1947 net earnings were $22,934,977, after provision of $12,000,000 for high cost additions to fixed assets. This represents an average of only 1 cent of each sales dollar. Swift & Company is owned by 64,000 stockholders, whose savings provide the money for capital plants, equipment, tools and raw materials. Of the net earnings, the stockholders received $12,476,512 in dividends. The balance has been kept in the company as a reserve for future needs of the business.

Where the Dollar Went—



Here is a quick "picture" of how Swift's average sales dollar was divided in 1947. Smallest slice is Swift & Company's net earnings for many essential services in the processing and marketing of the agricultural products you produce. It averaged a fraction of a cent a pound on the millions of pounds handled.

How We EARN Our Profit

In addition to providing a market for livestock and many other agricultural products, Swift performs many essential services for producers and consumers. Most people can't go to farms to buy their meat—neither can retail dealers. Swift brings the meat to them. We have been doing this big, necessary job for 62 years, efficiently and economically.

Here are the services Swift & Company performs to earn its small profit:

1) We buy livestock and many other products that farmers and ranchers raise; then process and distribute them.

2) We process, brand, and perform all the many necessary operations to prepare our products for market and consumption.

3) We utilize all by-products. Every part that can be used is processed and sold in various forms. The income from this source increases the price of livestock to producers, decreases the cost of meat to consumers.

4) Our research finds new uses and new markets for farmers' and ranchers' products.

5) Our Martha Logan experimental kitchens test foods under home conditions, so that Swift products may give consumers the greatest possible satisfaction and value per dollar.

6) We pay transportation charges on our finished products, delivering them to dealers in all parts of the United States. This makes a broad, nationwide market instead of a limited local market for the products of livestock producers.

7) We provide employment and a livelihood—good wages, good working conditions and security—for 73,000 people who work for Swift & Company.

Our earnings for all this were one cent on each dollar of sales.

Conservation of Our Land Resources

by H. H. Kildee, Dean of Agriculture, Iowa State College

During recent years we have become increasingly conscious of the importance of conserving our land resources. Accordingly, we have initiated conservation programs and practices which are sound and logical. Such action was and is urgently needed, not alone for the current generation, but as an obligation to generations yet unborn. As one result of the programs adopted, much land (which because of its character and slope was being destroyed by erosion) has been turned back to grass. Thus, expanding livestock production has become an increasingly important part of the program of conserving our natural resources.

Continual sale of crops off a farm or ranch results in serious loss of plant food. But the maintenance of plant food elements in the soil is urgently needed if our crop land is to continue to provide adequate quantities of human food. Livestock farming is helping accomplish this. For when land is used for grazing, rather than for crops, soil erosion ceases and the unnecessary loss of plant foods is checked.

Church Group Plans Revival Campaign

Plans for a coming revival campaign and for a "fellowship evangelism" effort were made at a meeting of the evangelistic committee of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Wednesday night. A special committee was appointed to make a check of the information cards turned over to the church following the recent church census taken by Kiwanis club here.

Cards of residents who listed Calvary church as "church preference," will be divided among various organizations and classes of the church whose responsibility it will be to get in touch with the families on their particular lists.

The committee includes Mrs. John Ruth, Mrs. George Bensley, Mrs. Ed. Sprow, Mrs. Harvey Klinefelter, Mrs. Harry Miers and Mrs. Mildred Kuntz. The committee will meet next Tuesday afternoon. The special revival campaign has been set for March 16-28, at which time Rev. W. L. Mullet of Walhounding will be the preacher. Arrangements were made by the evangelistic committee to set up Sunday evening prayer services at 7 o'clock, preceding evening worship, leading up to the revival.

During the campaign, prayer services will be held at the same hour preceding the nightly revival services. A committee named to arrange for special music and for a choir for the services includes Charles Feaver, Elmer Harruff and Mrs. Fred Dutt.

AN average basketball team with Dick Mesmer . . . . That's the way Prexy Coach Kenny Somerlot describes the Ivorid Athens High school basketball team that will be here tonight to do battle with the locals in a return engagement. . . . Whether they're just "average" or something else again is open to question, but that Dick Mesmer is not is not . . . . Thirteen wins they've annexed this season—an all time record of but one. Maybe that record isn't clean but it sure is Kleenex—ugh, to be reminded . . . . Mesmer, an All-Ohio choice last year, is even better this season. He's sent in 328 points in 14 games and his teammate at forward has a record that Burns almost as not. The Jersey Dave has counted 202 . . . "Fight fire with flame," is the Harding cry. "Prexies not, Ashland time—you beat us, we go you name." . . . . President Pen shouts, "Floor Burns and Meet up Mesmer." . . . Maybe that would work in football, but the Prexies had better let Dick Piddle the basket and Jim Coss 'em off the floor.

THE LAST TIME the Prexies and the A's met on the basketball court it was roaster-toaster, 56-37 . . . We were roasted, they were toasted . . . But the locals figure it won't be a coaster for the A's tonight . . . . They're planning to put up a scrap and are counting on the small Edison Junior High school court to cut the A's down to size . . . The size of that court, Kenny Somerlot reveals, is one of the major reasons for the break-up of the old N.C.O. loop that Harding used to dominate. The other teams in the loop refused to play here.

• • •

WHILE THE PREXIES are entertaining Ashland here, the St. Mary Irish will be in Mt. Gilead working to protect their fourth-place position in the Mid-State league standings. They're a game behind Marysville, and have a chance to catch up in their season closer Feb. 27, when the Monarchs come to Marion . . . . Mt. Gilead is victory-less in the league . . . . The only league loss the Irish have suffered was a one-pointer to Marysville . . . . The Irish will be looking for their fifteenth win.

• • •

THE MARION BLUE BIRDS baseball team will hold a meeting at the Marion Metal guard house on Cheney avenue at 7:30 Saturday night. Leroy Harvey, Blue Bird's manager, said that last year's players and anyone desiring to play on the team should be present at the meeting.

• • •

BECAUSE NOT ENOUGH entry fees were received to balance the prize money, the Prospect Invitational basketball tournament has abolished both entry fees and prizes, but will be held as planned starting Feb. 23 . . . Teams who are expected to participate are the Richwood Independents, Green Camp K. of P., Delaware Screw Products, Claridon Ex-Hi's, Caledonia Merchants, Marion Merchants, Universal Cooler, McMillen Feeds, Marseilles Ex-Hi's, Schlairet Transfer, Smith's Clothing, and the Prospect All Stars.

• • •

PROBABLY BASKETBALL'S best foul collector is Rio Grande's Newt Oliver, and he makes his trip to the foul line pay off. . . . Newt's scoring average stands fourth among the nation's small-college cagers, by virtue of his foul shooting. He's scored 161 field goals and 217 free throws for 539 points, an average of 23.4 a game in 23 games. . . . He's the only one of the top 10 scorers who has dropped in more foul shots than fielders. . . . Other top scorers among the nation's small-college courtsters according to figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau are Eppa Rixey of Kenyon, third with a 24.2 average; Wagner of Wooster, and Fellmeth of Wittenberg, tied for ninth with 18.1 averages.

• • •

RALPH WILSON, LaRue forward, is one of the high-scoring county league cagers omitted in The Star's list of top scorers. He started the season slow, but warmed up as it progressed and ended with 88 points off 36 field goals and 16 free throws. He is twentieth in the unofficial standings.

Paul Brown Denies He's Campaigning To Return To Ohio State

Cleveland Brown Mentor Says Coaching Pro Football Is Easier Than College

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—Coaching a professional football team, says Paul E. Brown of Cleveland's two-time All-America Conference champs, is easier than handling a college club.

But Brown has never been one to insist on an easy job, or shy away from a tough one. All of which may be one reason rumors are rampant that "Operation Paul," should he get an offer, might embrace a chance to return to Ohio State—this time as athletic director and coach.

A Minneapolis sports writer, quoting a purported interview with Dick Larkins, Ohio State athletic director, brought the Brown-OSU affair into the open yesterday. Larkins denied he had made a statement to the Minneapolis scribe that "Brown has started a terrific drive in Columbus and around Ohio to return as football coach at the Buckeye state. Brown is not happy in the pro atmosphere. He has a good bank account and wants to coach college kids again."

Brown Denies Report

And Brown, in Columbus yesterday to show the Browns' 1947 football film to assorted sports writers and radio men, also denied starting a campaign to return to Ohio State.

The Cleveland mentor declined to be drawn into conversation regarding whether he would again take over the Buckeye reins should the opportunity present itself. Answering a question, "Would you rather coach college than professional football?" Paul said:

"Some of the happiest days I ever spent were in Massillon, as a high school coach."

Professional football, Brown said, is easier to coach because "you don't have that continual pressure and your recruit problem is simplified. Discipline is easier, too, for all you have to do is threaten to cut a guy off the payroll and he sees things your way.

"The pro game is just glorified intercollegiate football, with the pass offense and defense more highly developed."

Taking cognizance of the "disturbance" caused by the signing of Ohio State players by the Browns, the Cleveland coach said:

"I am in the professional football business and I want the best players I can get. I'd be foolish to 'bamboozle' a boy into signing a pro contract if he were happy in his intercollegiate playing.

Such a boy would do us no good.

It Wasn't for Money

"But take the case of Dean Sensanbaugher. He signed with us, and it wasn't because of the money. His father gave him a $3,800 automobile for Christmas—that's how much he needs the money. He just wants to play football, and decided he'd rather play with us than with Ohio State."

Brown continued: "If I were a college coach, I'd battle just as hard to keep my boys who are eligible for pro ball as I do now to get them to sign. It's all business, and depends which side you are on."

The Clevelander said he'd try to keep the Browns the class of the All-America Conference "just as long as I can. I'm not a good loser. I'd rather win a game before 1,000 fans than lose one before a gate of 80,000."

When the meeting ended no one, except Brown, was certain whether he had an idea in the back of his mind he might someday return to Ohio State, where his 1942 team won the national championship. And Paul wasn't saying.

11-BOUT FIGHT CARD SET AT SCHWINGER'S

Local Amateurs To Meet Delaware, Mansfield Battlers.

Schwinger's Annex will be the scene of an 11-bout fight card Wednesday night. The boxing show, promoted by Jimmie Williams, will include four winners from the Friendly House A.A.U. tournament held in Mansfield Feb. 7 and 8.

Among these winners will be Joe Neidig, popular Marion lightweight, and owner of the Johnny Villella trophy which he received for putting up the best scrap in the F. H. tournament. He has not been matched for Wednesday's show as yet, but will appear when a good fighter is found to put in the ring with him.

Other tournament winners appearing here are: Don Eshenshade, 150, of Mansfield vs. Ernie Arcurri 152, of Marion; Tom Weaver, 182-pound colored fighter of Mansfield vs. John Benedict, 190, of Marion; Orlando "Lu" Carbetta vs. a fighter yet to be chosen.

In all, 33 rounds of boxing are in order if each fight goes the three rounds scheduled. That, however, is not likely to happen with these hard-punchin', free-swinging A.A.U. boys in the ring. Knockouts and dragouts will be the rule rather than the exception when these ambitious young amateurs climb through the ropes.

Many of the boys on Wednesday's card have been in training for several weeks at the Y.M.C.A. for the Golden Gloves matches to be held March 15, 17 and 19, and will be fighting tune-up bouts in preparation for those matches.

The remainder of the schedule lists Kenny Berry, 142 of Mansfield against Jack Seckinger, 141, of Marion; Johnny Chambers, 120, of Marion vs. Bill Carney, 120, of Mansfield; "Buck" Rogers, 144, of Marion vs. Bruce Weirich, 147, of Mansfield; Dick Stout, 130, of Delaware vs. Wayne Benedict, 130, of Marion. Bobby and Gene Hunt of Marion and aPt Patterson of Delaware are yet to be matched.

ALL TANGLED UP. This is what happened when a couple of haymakers misfired in semi-final bout of 175-pound class, in the Southern Golden Gloves tournament in Nashville, Tenn. The combatants are Oscar Cox of Atlanta, Ga., on bottom, and Robert Murdock, Nashville, on the top. Referee is Clyde Hipps Nashville. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

COOLER, COMMERCIAL STONE'S WIN Y GAMES

Stone's Grill, Universal Cooler, and Commercial Steel won in the Y.M.C.A. league played on the Y floor last night.

Stone's, paced by Burbrink, 11 points, and Ridenour, 9, had to hang on in the last two frames to win from Pollak, 27-24. Leading 19-9 at the intermission, the Stone's quint was hard-pressed to outlast the Steelers in the last two cantos as they were outscored 15-8. Scherr was top marksman for Pollak with 10 points.

Cooler trampled Martel, 52-45, as they came from behind in the final stanza with a 20 point barrage. Martel led at the half 29-21 and at the end of the third quarter, 41-32, but garnered only four points in the fourth frame as Cooler ended short-handed, with Rider going to the showers by way of the foul route in the last period. Reid was top man for Cooler with 16 points and Freet, for Martel, with 15.

Running hot last night, Commercial dropped Sally Ann, 57-36, as Frank hit for 26 counters in pacing his team to their 21 point margin of victory. Morris paced the Sally Ann quint with a 11 point total.

HARDING-ASHLAND GAME TO BE ON FM STATION

For the first time in Harding's history, a home basketball game will be broadcast over an FM station.

Station WATG in Ashland will be on hand in Edison Junior High school gym tonight to give FM listeners a play-by-play of the Ashland-Harding basketball game. WATG is 101.3 on the FM dial.

Frank Purdy, track coach at Ashland, will call the plays starting at 8:15 p. m. The station will also air a "Cage Quiz" show at 8. This is a 15-minute interview program in which spectators try to guess in efinal score for prizes.

FM means in radio, frequency modulation, which is a different way of broadcasting from the common AM or amplitude modulation method.

As usual, the game will be aired over the Marion AM station, WMRN.

Asks A. A. C. Probe of McKeever's "White Paper" on U. S. F. Football

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13—The football eligibility ruckus kicked up by Coach Ed McKeever at the University of San Francisco showed signs today of following him into professional football.

President Tony Morabito of the San Francisco 49'ers is enroute to Chicago with demands for an investigation by the All America Conference of the "white paper" of U.S.F. football which McKeever left behind when he became coach of the Chicago Rockets.

After coaching at U.S.F. for a year McKeever abruptly resigned last month to take the pro team job and wrote a widely circulated letter in which he questioned eligibility of 22 USF players and said money was paid to some of the Dons.

Leaves for Meeting

Morabito left last night for a weekend meeting of officials of the All America Conference, of which the 49'ers and Rockets are members.

"I'll say plenty about this at the meeting," Morabito said.

He said he considered McKeever's action "my business and I don't like it."

"We're trying to build good will—not tear it down," Morabito added. "He is one of us and people can't help but ask: 'What kind of coaches do you hire?'"

Asked if he believed McKeever's job with the Rockets would be endangered, Morabito said:

"This certainly won't enhance it."

University of San Francisco officials meanwhile returned a heavy fire of counter charges at McKeever.

U.S.F. Charges

U.S.F. athletic officials charged McKeever had:

1. Told five players he brought here for the U.S.F. team to cover up the fact they had previously attended other colleges.

2. Stripped the athletic files of such papers as schedule negotiations, alumni letters on prospects and football plans.

3. Repeatedly exceeded budgets for grid games.

Father Jerome Sullivan, athletic moderator, announced that only one of the 22 players named by McKeever—Phil O'Connor, formerly of Notre Dame and St. Louis university—definitely was ineligible. Only one other—Joe Mocha, said by McKeever to have attended Pittsburgh, Bethany and Maryland—remains in doubt, Father Sullivan said.

He added that McKeever had "compromised" five players who failed to mention previous college attendance but that their names will be clear unless any opponent objects to their playing.

ORTH, WALBERG WIN WRESTLING MATCHES

Paul Orth and Wilbur Walberg won their matches in the double-main event wrestling card at the Armory last night. Fritz Barlow and James Stewart wrestled to a draw in the ten-minute preliminary.

Walberg took the first fall in his match with Red Lyons, Lyons won the second and then was disqualified in the third after refusing to break up a hold.

Orth won the first and third falls in a rough match with Bill Murray.

BELMONT TRAMPLES CENTERVILLE, 145-

By The Associated Press

BARNESVILLE, O., Feb. 13—There was little joy at near Centerville High school today.

Belmont High won last night's basketball game, 146-26, for what well may be the most decisive score in Ohio high school annals.

The bombarding Belmont five spread their scoring among nine players. Five of the lads netted 13 or more points apiece.

This high-geared scoring, however, merely poured a great deal of salt on an already open wound. Belmont Reserves walloped Centerville Reserves, 58-6, in the preliminary game.

$11,000 WOULD BE OK BY CATCHER JIM HEGAN

By The Associated Press

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 13 — Catcher Jimmy Hegan asserts that if the Cleveland Indians "send me a contract for $11,000 it will be satisfactory with me."

Hegan indicated his willingness to sign such a document after being informed last night Tribe President Bill Veeck had said in Cleveland, "I intend to sit this out for a whole and let Hegan make the next move."

Hegan has returned four contracts unsigned. "All called for the same amount," he said, inferring that each was for less than $11,000.

Philly Heavy in Serious Condition After Bout

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 — Ed Franklin, Philadelphia heavyweight, was reported in serious condition at Temple university hospital today. He was floored by Bill (Chicken) Thompson in the eighth round of their bout at the Met last night.

Franklin, 167, was knocked down twice for a count of nine in the eighth and final round. He managed to come up just before the final count only to encounter a flurry of lefts and rights that sent him back to the canvas unconscious as the bell rang.

Thompson won by a unanimous decision.

His seconds revived him and took him back to his corner where he again collapsed and slid to the floor.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

A BALD-HEADED man called "Curly", who 30 years ago wrote hit dance tunes for Vernon and Irene Castle, is still tinkling a tuneful past for people who are homesick for yesterday.

He is Arthur N. Green, now billed as "the man of a million melodies" but once known as America's dance king.

In his sixtieth year Curly pulses a battered piano in the Knickerbocker music hall, a Manhattan theater cafe. It features old-time songs, variety acts and "The Wayward Maiden," a satire on the old-fashioned melodrama.

Hal Boyle

Green has found pleasant anchorage in this last refuge of vaudeville, which is popular both with college kids and old-timers who come to shed an alcoholic tear over the songs of their youth.

"It's funny about the old tunes—they're like life itself," said Curly, whose fingers are a rippling anthology of the last half century of music. "They're popular for a while and then lose out. But every so often they come back again—as a new generation comes along to enjoy them."

Each night he lives over his life again as he tinkles out 200 to 300 tunes.

Few people now request any of the thirty numbers he wrote himself, except lonely beleaguered Elks who call for "Hello Bill," the official lodge song. But more than three decades ago people in the streets hummed his now half-forgotten novelty, "If I Catch the Guy Who Wrote Poor Butterfly."

AND AN AMERICA WEARY of the waltz turned eagerly to the new dance rhythms Green composed for the famous Castle team—"Tango Argentina," the first tango written in this country, "Innovation Tango," "Sans Souci," the "Half and Half" and "Raggin' the Old Virginia Reel."

The death of Vernon Castle in an air crash in 1918 broke up his hit parade. Castle had been his close friend.

"For 20 years I couldn't write a note," Curly said.

He went into vaudeville with his wife. They were a featured act on the "four-a-day" circuits for years until something happened to vaudeville that shouldn't happen—even to vaudeville.

Green returned but he's back again now. He's turned out a new catchy dance tempo—"Kind of a Boogie-Woogie with a Rhumba Rhythm"—which he says is catching on in Harlem.

"WRITING A MELODY is easy," he said. "I can do it in 15 minutes and base it on anything—a phone number, a car license, the figures on a dollar bill.

"But turning out a hit tune? There's no rhyme or reason to that. Writing a hit song is like throwing dice—you can come up with a natural any time."

Montgomery Grange Has Guest Meeting

Members of Montgomery grange were joined by guests at an open meeting Tuesday night in the grange hall at DeCliff. M. Roux, steward; Peggy Uhl, chaplain; Howard Murphy, assistant steward; Betty Uhl, lady assistant steward; Jane Weston, Pomona; Carol Harriman, Ceres; Dorothy Wallace, Flora; Joseph Miller, treasurer; Lila Harriman, secretary; and Dwight Wenig, gatekeeper.

Humes, district commercial manager of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. Mr. Humes conducted a question and answer period. Clifton Wenig, master, presided. Lunch was served following the program.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Selective recovery tendencies persisted in today's stock market although many leaders were neglected at lower levels.

Wall Streeters returned from their holiday in a cautious frame of mind but inclined to reiterate convictions here and there on the idea the list was due for a good technical comeback. Erratic commodities, taxes, foreign situations and business doubts restrained numerous customers.

Dealings slacked after a fairly active start. Prices were slightly mixed near midday.

Further gains included U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, International Harvester, J. I. Case, Bearing, American Smelting, American Woolen, Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio and United Air Lines.

American Telephone dipped better than a point to a 1947-48 low. Occasional laggards were Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. C. Penney, American Can, Union Carbide, Great Northern Railway, Texas Co. and Paramount Pictures.

Middle Point Lady Lost 30 Lbs. Says General Health Improved

"I am 52 years of age," writes Mrs. Thos. Armstrong, Van Wert County, Middle Point, Ohio, "and before taking Rennel my weight was unbecoming and bulky. I have lost 30 lbs. and am satisfied that my general health has improved. Rennel has perked up my system and since I have lost this weight my neuritis has fully disappeared."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Why not try this effective yet inexpensive method of reducing and enjoy the pleasures of feeling younger and more alive. Try Rennel and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on the genuine Rennel.

Sawyer's body will be buried when warm weather comes, she said. He was killed in the Battle of the Bulge.
